VOL. XLV NUMBER 8

The Good Ship "Brown Victory"

"THE GOOD SHIP 'Brown Victory' went down the ways of the Oregon Shipbuilding yards today with a well-broken and dripping bottle of champagne swinging on a red, white and blue ribbon from her nose. The plates had been burned evenly, and she hit the water perfectly to float serenely out into the channel. There a couple of busybody tugs nuzzled up to her and pompously escorted her into the fitting docks where her trimmings will be added. These Victories are majestic-looking ships, even if they are freighters, and this one will bear her name proudly over the seven seas."

Ashley Greene '21 went back to his law office in the Public Service Building in Portland, Ore., Feb. 23 and dictated the description above. By now, the ship, outfitted, is off on its first war errand. It bears a number of substantial souvenirs from the University whose name it carries. Most prominent among them is the $300 library for the crew, underwritten by the treasury of the Associated Alumni, towards which individual alumni subscriptions are now invited.

Far from the campus and the larger centers of Brown population, the launching was not witnessed by many Brunonians, but the event meant a great deal to the alumni in the Pacific Northwest. All in Oregon and Washington had been notified by Mr. Greene, an officer of the Oregon Brown Club, and the Alumni Office. Most of them responded cordially and sentimentally, although only a few actually represented Brown at the ways.

Mr. Greene brought greetings to the principals in the launching, the craftsmen and other builders, the special guests and the other spectators from President Wriston, the Corporation, Faculty, students and alumni of Brown University on the afternoon of the launching. He expressed "deep gratitude to the Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation, the Maritime Commission, and our government for this great honor conferred upon our beloved university."

"BROWN STANDS for a faith based upon wisdom and understanding," he went on. "Founded by the Baptists, inspired with the liberalism of Rhode Island, the school retains that liberal spirit which reveres tradition but welcomes invention — a spirit which breeds sturdy loyalty, initiative, and respect for humanity, which is vital to democratic leadership. As symbols of that spirit, I am happy to present these pictures of Brown University, which, we hope, will serve as an inspiration for the crew of Brown Victory. This one shows University Hall, whose antiquity is attested by the fact that Rochambeau quartered his troops in it before we were a nation. This is a campus scene in wartime and in the background the braided elms and ivy-covered walls so dear to Brown men. Another shows the memorial gate erected in honor of Brown men who gave their lives in the last war. The fourth, a football scene, shows a Brown man, a future Nimitz or MacArthur, blocking a kick.

"The name of Brown is not strange to the sea," Mr. Greene pointed out, citing the shipbuilding tradition in the Brown family and their cargoes in world trade in the days when "you could really light your pipe from the smoking lamp." On the campus, in this tradition, Mr. Greene recalled he had been taught to sing "As we sail ever joyously under the sky, over the wild waves' fury."

"In all the wars of our country, Brown men have been found in the shipyards and at sea," the speaker continued. "One of them in the Northwest, Edward R. Smith '15, of Wiley & Smith, Portland, who is here today, helped build this ship. Another who is present, Miss Eleanor Bradley, a graduate (1935) of Pembroke College in Brown University, is secretary of the Shipbuilders Council of Portland. Another, Capt. Paul S. Crandall '19, is commander of the U.S.S. Oxford. Closely allied to shipping, Robert S. Macfarlane '20 directs the streams of Northern Pacific trains which bring cargoes for these ships from inland.

"OUR UNIVERSITY itself is now one of the Navy's chief training schools for officers and technicians, and the shrill notes of the boatswain's pipe echo through these ancient halls where for 180 years, young men from all States in the Union, have been taught to love God and accept the responsibilities of leadership in our never-ending battle for freedom and democracy. These students who will sail the sea are Brown men, too, and are with us today in spirit, with cheers in their hearts, as Brown Victory goes down the ways. Needless to say, we who have been privileged to serve in the Army (Mr. Greene was returned to inactive duty as a Lt. Col. last November), also rejoice in sending a Brown Bear to fight for the Eagle. May this good ship and her

WHEN THE ASSOCIATED ALUMNI of Brown were informed by Robert W. Horton of the U. S. Maritime Commission that an armed cargo ship was to be named the Brown Victory as a compliment to the University, they asked the question, "In what way can we best acknowledge and further the ship's association with Brown?" The best answer was "By providing a library for the ship's company."

On long trips merchant seamen are avid readers, and they consume every known type of literature. To meet this need, the American Merchant Marine Library Association, a voluntary, non-profit organization, devised a plan for furnishing ships' libraries at a reasonable cost and selecting appropriate books. Adequate shelving is provided. An appropriate bookplate is placed in each book. And, in addition to installing the library, the A.M.M.L.A. oversees its care and maintenance through regular service in many ports.

A gift of $300 has been underwritten by the treasury of the Associated Alumni for the purchase of such a library for the S.S. Brown Victory. Won't you make a small gift to meet this sum? Please send your check to F. E. Schoeneweiss, Treasurer, the Alumni Office, Brown University.

brave crew carry implements of war to our battlefronts until the present threat to freedom is utterly destroyed. Then we all may sing with the undergraduates: 'Brunonia's banners are waving, in triumph on the Hill; Brunonia's cohorts are cheering, for the Bear has made his kill.' "

Actual sponsor of the Brown Victory was Mrs. Norma Martinson, representing the administrative employees of the Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation. Following Mr. Greene's address, bouquets of American Beauty roses were presented to her and her attendants. Rev. Leslie V. Dunton of St. David's Episcopal Church of Portland pronounced the invocation. Shipwright Supt. Ray Hausmann then gave the signal for burning the trigger plates which held the ship to the ways. Within three minutes, she was gliding toward the Willamette river and hit the water at 18 knots.

Other Brunonian witnesses were L. C. Lewis and Lois Melton, according to newspaper clippings of the event. Among those who sent regrets were Robert Forbis '20, Mrs. John A. Grouse, Jr., Rev. George P. Helliwell '26, John W. Butler '95, Col. F. Webster Cook '05, A. M. Roberts, Jr. '31, C. M. Whipple '09, Thomas E. Autzen '41, Howard R. Perrin '14, Paul F. Thomas '28, Prof. A. M. Winslow '03, Prof. Horace E. Chandler '06.

▸ A CASE of about 50 books about Brown University, published by it, or by Brunonian authors was sent to Portland for inclusion in the ship's library. They included such varied items as Bronson's History of Brown, a Brown Songbook, Dr. Lawrence Wroth's "Early Cartography of the Pacific," President Wriston's "Challenge to Freedom" and "Strategy of Peace," "Student Life at Brown," publications on University Hall, Pembroke College, and several books from the Brown University Studies. The selection was made with the counsel of Dr. Henry B. Van Hoesen, Librarian. These books were in addition to the ship's general library toward which alumni contributions are solicited.

The S.S. Brown Victory is a fast armed cargo vessel, the 57th Victory type ship constructed for the Maritime Commission by Oregon Shipbuilding, according to Public Relations Officer Hal Babbitt. She is 455 feet long and has a deadweight tonnage of 10,600 tons. The Victory design is regarded by the Maritime Commission as an improvement on the old Liberty ships, speedier, with finer hull lines, and equipped with turbine-gear propulsion machinery of more than twice the horsepower of the reciprocating steam engine used in the Liberty. The Victory has a speed of more than 15 knots as against the 11 of the Liberty, made possible by the power plant of 6000 horsepower or more. The finer lines conform to its greater propulsion power. It is not an over-all welding job but is of rivet construction in certain parts of the main structure. It has three decks as against the Liberty's two, a beam of 62 feet as against 57, a somewhat longer hull, too. ◂

Champion Classes ◂

▸▸ A NEW CHAMPION has gained possession of the Trustees' Bowl of the Brown Alumni Fund on the basis of its performance during the 1943-1944 campaign. The honor goes to the Class of 1909 which thus celebrated its 35th anniversary. All compliments to Class Agent Raymond Buss and his classmates, whose numeral is the third to appear on the bowl. Retiring Fund Chairman A. L. Philbrick '03 presented the trophy to Mr. Buss during the Advisory Council session Feb. 24, while other 1909 men looked on proudly: Chauncey Wheeler, Herbert M. Sherwood, Henry S. Chafee, Dr. Moses L. Crossley, and Frederick M. Boyce.

The 1909 contributors beat off a determined challenge from Edward H. Weeks and 1893, who sought to repeat their 1943 triumph and ran a good second. Third place went to the newcomers of the class of 1942, for which the Navy's Bill Potter is team captain. The staunch 1907 class, which took the trophy in its first two years only to fall off last year, was back in the running again.

The committee on awards again rated the classes on five factors: 1—the per cent of living grads who gave; 2—the increase in the percentage of living grads who gave; 3—the percentage of increase in the amount of money given; 4—the proportionate share of the campaign total (a sort of ex post facto "quota" set-up which took into consideration the number of men in the class and the length of time out of college); and 5—the percentage of increase in this percentage of "quota." In the various categories, 1909 ranked 15th, 7th, 5th, 12th, and 2nd, respectively. With a point for each place, 1909 scored 41, the lowest and hence best record.

The rating of all classes on this basis follows, with points in parenthesis: 1—1909 (41); 2—1893 (66); 3—1942 (68); 4—1879 (91); 4(5)—1919 (91); 6—1890 (93); 7—1884 (94); 8—1918 (96); 9—1907 (101); 10—1883 (102); 11—1914 (112); 12—1894 (113); 13—1902 (114); 14—1881 (116); 15—1908 (120); 16—1887 (127); 17—1917 (128); 18—1888 (129); 19—1896 (129); 20—1916 (129); 21—1899 (130); 22—1906 (131); 23—1878 (141); 24—1889 (141); 25—1898 (143); 26—1936 (143); 27—1930 (145); 28—1913 (147); 29—1926 (147); 30—1941 (152); 31—1901 (153); 32—1905 (153); 33—1939 (156); 34—1940 (156); 35—1929 (158); 36—1910 (162); 37—1895 (165); 38—1912 (167); 39—1911 (169); 40—1897 (170); 41—1932 (190); 42—1885 (194); 43—1922 (196); 44—1925 (196); 45—1935 (197); 46—1938 (198); 47—1937 (199); 48—1943 (204); 49—1903 (209); 50—1920 (216); 51—1900 (218); 52—1931 (218); 53—1924 (220); 54—1927 (220); 55—1944 (220); 56—1891 (222); 57—1892 (228); 58—1904 (231); 59—1933 (231); 60—1921 (232); 61—1934 (237); 62—1928 (261); 63—1882 (270); 64—1923 (276); 65—1915 (281); 66—1886 (289); and 67—1880 (327).

$31,000 for Engineering

EXPANSION of the engineering laboratory facilities at Brown University will be furthered by a gift of $30,000 from the Hammel-Dahl Company, Providence, manufacturers of automatic control equipment. The benefaction, prompted by recent co-operation between research workers at the University and the company, was announced by President Wriston of Brown at the 33rd annual dinner of Brown engineering alumni.

Announcement was made the same evening of a gift of $1000 from Thomas F. Gilbane '33 and William J. Gilbane '33 "for additional engineering facilities." The brothers are associated in the Gilbane Building Company, with the former as president, and it was this company which built Brunonia, the President's House, Van Wickle Hall, and Andres House. "It is gratifying to my brother and me," wrote Thomas Gilbane, "that Brown University recognizes the value of ceaseless growth." The gift was made "with sentiments of happy recollections and with a clear understanding and appreciation of what Brown has done for us."

The gift made by Hammel-Dahl was "in appreciation of the many services and facilities made available to us by the University in the performance of our Government contracts during the year 1944 and particularly in appreciation of the courtesies shown to us by Prof. Leighton T. Bohl '13 of the Brown Division of Engineering." A second floor will be added to the Engineering Laboratory Building as the result.

The following building committee has been named by the University Corporation to plan and oversee the project: Prof. Bohl '13, chairman; President Wriston; Ward A. Davenport, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Brown; Donald G. Millar '19, Brown alumni trustee and president of the Greenfield Tap and Die Corporation; Alton C. Chick '19, former member of the engineering faculty, director of the Associated Alumni, and assistant vice-president and engineer of Manufacturers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company; and Bradford G. Woolley '29, vice-president of Hammel-Dahl.

The Little Chapel

JUST INSIDE SAYLES HALL (the hall itself) and to the left is the Little Chapel, dedicated in the midst of campus life to quiet thought and prayer. On the altar is the Book of Remembrance in which are recorded the names of Brown men who have died for their country. This book, beautifully bound, is the gift of the Brown Club of Providence.

On a table close by are a Bible for private reading, a selection of prayers, and cards on which are printed the following prayers:

An Act of Trust

Almight God, we entrust ourselves and all who are dear to us to Thy never-failing care and love, for this life and the life to come, knowing that Thou art doing for us better things than we can desire or pray for, and beseeching Thee to continue Thy protection to us; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For All in the Service of Our Country

O Almighty Lord God, protect and assist, we beseech Thee, all those who at home or abroad, by land, by sea, or in the air, are serving this country, that they, being armed with Thy defense, may be preserved in all perils, and being filled with wisdom and girded with strength, may do their duty to Thy honour and glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For Our Brethren of Brown

O God, Our Heavenly Father, we remember in our prayers our brethren of Brown who are now serving their country. Inspire them by Thy Holy Presence, endue them with Thine unfailing strength, and may they ever be mindful of our thought of them. Keep in Thy loving care all who suffer. Sustain and comfort the dying. Have in Thy holy keeping all who have given their lives for their country. Grant unto them that, increasing in knowledge and love of Thee, they may go from strength to strength in Thy Heavenly Kingdom. And we beseech Thee that the good work making of a righteous pease; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For God's Blessing

May God's blessing rest upon us and upon our friends, upon those here with us, and upon those who are parted from us. Amen.

There is no more appropriate place for the Chapel than this, leading out of the Hall to which for so many years all Brown men have come, and from which they have gone out into the whole world to their appointed duties. Here, naturally, they seem very near.

Will you who read this think of this chapel at home where you are remembered every day, and where, in the presence of God, we all, of this world and the next, are the more closely united in the abiding fellowship of our University.

ARTHUR L. WASHBURN, Chaplain

The Football Schedule for 1945

AN EIGHT-GAME SCHEDULE is on the books for the 1945 Brown football varsity, according to Athletic Director Walter H. Snell's announcement in March. With one game still pending, there will be four games at home (Boston College, Holy Cross, Coast Guard Academy, and Colgate) and three away (Pennsylvania, Columbia, and Yale). Brown has not played Boston College in 28 years nor Penn in nine. The contest at New Haven will be the 50th between Brown and Yale, a rivalry dating from 1880. The date for the Colgate game follows the 1944 pattern when the engagement was for Saturday, rather than Thanksgiving Thursday. The reason: Navy regulations which prevent absence from duties for sufficient travel time in mid-week.

The 1945 schedule follows: Sept. 29—Pennsylvania. Oct. 6—Boston College. Oct. 13—Permanently open (semester exams). Oct. 20—Holy Cross. Oct. 27—Columbia. Nov. 3—U. S. Coast Guard Academy. Nov. 10—Yale. Nov. 17—pending. Nov. 24—Colgate.

Jones Promoted

NELSON B. JONES '28, Manager of Faunce House and the Brown Union at Brown University since his graduation, has been appointed to the post of Director of Student Activities, it was announced in March by President Henry M. Wriston. In his new position, Mr. Jones will supervise the non-athletic extra-curricular organizations in the College, as well as continue the management of Faunce House and the Brown Union.

Even under war conditions Brown is maintaining a full program of undergraduate activity in the fields of publications, music, dramatics, departmental clubs, class organizations, student governing bodies, and fraternities. This program has been made possible through unusual cooperation between civilian and navy students. With Mr. Jones' background and experience in this field, the lively interest of undergraduates will be further encouraged and Faunce House will continue, as in recent years, to be the center of student affairs.

Former president of the American Association of College Unions, Mr. Jones is now vice-president of that organization. During extensive travels, he has visited most of the college campuses this side of the Mississippi River, studying student activities there. Since 1941 he has been treasurer of Brown's Committee on Dramatic Productions. Secretary for class agents of the Brown Alumni Fund, he also serves as treasurer of the Faculty Club and secretary of the Board of Management of the Brown Outing Reservation. He is a former member of the executive committee and officer of the Brown Club of Providence.

As manager of the Brown Union Mr. Jones operates Faunce House with its many facilities and services, formulates and presents a complete social and recreational program for the undergraduates. A large amount of Mr. Jones' efforts has been devoted to providing recreational diversions for military units stationed at Brown. He is considered one of the outstanding men in his field.

A large part of his work at Brown involves furthering faculty-student relationships; last term he inaugurated a weekly Coffee Hour program in the new Gallery-Lounge of Faunce House as an opportunity for faculty and students to gather and enjoy each other's company. Other ways in which Mr. Jones has improved relationships and consolidated military and civilian interests at Brown include the successful outdoor concerts of the last two summers, Sunday evening musical programs, special movie programs twice a week, student dances, and tournaments.

While an undergraduate, he participated in football, track, lacrosse, was vice-president of his class, and a member of the Cammarian Club. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. His Senior year, he was secretary-manager of the Brown Union on a part-time basis.

New director of student activities

Memorial to Wendell Willkie

CHARLES E. HUGHES, JR., '09, is President of the Willkie Memorial Building Fund. Purpose of the Fund founders is to erect in New York as a memorial to Mr. Willkie a building that will be headquarters for organizations advancing these causes: "fostering of international collaboration; elimination of racial and religious prejudices; advancement of colored people; improving of housing and neighborhood conditions; and better labor-employer relations."

"Those Americans Best Qualified"

IN AGREEMENT as to the goals to be desired, the American Bankers' Association and the Secretary of the Treasury have carried before Congress their disagreement over certain aspects of the Bretton Woods program for world finance. Taking the Secretary to task for his resentment of criticism, the New York Herald Tribune said editorially in February that the A.B.A. recommendations were put forward by "men of the type of Professor John H. Williams of Harvard and Dr. W. Randolph Burgess, for many years economist at the New York Reserve Bank and noted authority on the money market." The newspaper predicted that if the Bretton Woods program fails, "it will not be because of crippling amendments but because of the insistence of the Treasury that a plan devised on its own initiative and presented to the nation as a fait accompli must be accepted without criticism by those Americans best qualified to understand it and judge its merits."

Professor Williams and Dr. Burgess, classmates at Brown in 1912, are both members of the University Board of Fellows.

Inter-American Cooperation

W. RANDOLPH BURGESS '12, vice-chairman of the board of the National City Bank of New York, is the chairman of the Board of Trustees of the newly organized Council for Inter-American Cooperation, Inc., a group formed "to mobilize the support of business, cultural, labor, and educational leaders of the nation in hemispheric cooperation." Since the objective at the outset is to continue certain phases of government-sponsored activities initiated by the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, the council announces that "avoidance of duplication of effort is basic" to its plans and that "it will seek to advance projects now under way and will function primarily by extending services to other organizations."

Raymond T. Rich '22, former director of Inter-American Centers, OCIAA, will serve as director of the council, and among some 36 persons who have accepted membership on the board is Waldo G. Leland '00, director of the American Council of Learned Societies.

With the Brown Clubs

The Arctic Chapter

THE BROWN HERALD-RECORD, wartime successor to the Brown Daily Herald and the Pembroke Record, had a communication this winter from the "Arctic Chapter of the Brown Alumni Association at Narsarssuak, Greenland" with the signatures of Nat Ades, Bert Dean, Bill McClellan, and Bill Slick, Privates First Class, USAAF, all members of what they recalled as the "great old Fighting 58th." Former members of the pre-metereological unit, these "loyal ice-bound sons of Brown" wrote: "Our meetings, of course, are irregular and are called together usually quite late at night. They consist of deep reminiscence of our 12 months at old Brunonia, and our memories are vivid and cherished. We want you to know that even in this land of the midnight sun—and damnable ice, rock, and cold—we still think of you at Brown and wish we were back with you again."

Two Dates for Bigelow

DR. BRUCE M. BIGELOW '24 will be the speaker at two New England meetings in May. On May 9 he will have dinner at 6:30 with the Brown Club of Western Maine in Portland, Harold K. Halpert '28, president. He will speak on "Brown in Wartime" at the Lafayette Hotel. On the following night he will be with the North Shore Brown Club, William J. Dee '26, president.

The Engineers Elect

JAMES LARKIN '11, sales manager of the Century Electric Company of New York, has been elected president of the Brown Engineering Association, succeeding his classmate, E. E. Jackson of United Electric & Power Company, New York. William G. Halewood '28 of Hammel-Dahl, Providence, was named vice-president, while Carl Kuester '26 of Babcock & Wilcox Company, New York, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The results of the balloting were announced at the 33rd annual dinner of the Association, held at Midston House, New York, on Jan. 19. Robert M. Bent '24 had provided a lively program with good balance of the gay and serious. The speakers included: President Wriston, Prof. Leighton T. Bohl '13, Alumni Trustee C. Douglas Mercer '06, W. Chesley Worthington '23, the old and new presidents of the association, and L. M. Pease representing the undergraduates. Eugene W. O'Brien '19 of Atlanta rang in plenty of variety as toastmaster, engineering a swap of coats with President Wriston as one novelty.

Baltimore Compliment

ON THE EVE of Dr. Joseph L. Wheeler's retirement as librarian of the celebrated Enoch Pratt Library, Brown alumni in Baltimore gathered at the Johns Hopkins Club March 23 to do him honor. He has been a stalwart in the Brown Club of Baltimore ever since his arrival in town in 1926, direct from the John Hay. His recollections provided the feature of the evening, for he talked of his experiences in Baltimore and of the principles which have guided him in his work.

The Baltimore Club also used the occasion to organize a little more formally to carry on alumni activities. Chester S. Stacpole '22 was named president, Charles P. Ives '25 secretary. Others present included Raymond P. Hawes '12, Christie E. Cuddeback '21, William E. Meuse '26, and Russell C. Wonderlic '27. A preliminary meeting had been held at the Johns Hopkins Faculty Club Feb. 7 to talk with Cole Lewis '47, an apprentice seaman in the Navy then on his way to Midshipman's School at Columbia. The company was composed of Dr. Wheeler '06, Prof. Raymond P. Harris '12, and Messrs. Ives and Stacpole.

Engle at Woonsocket

MOVIES of Brown's 1945 basketball victory over Rhode Island State provided a feature for the March meeting of the Brown Club of Woonsocket, when Coach Rip Engle met with the group to tell them of some of the problems attending wartime athletics. The Woonsocket Club, of which Henry Dursin '16 is president, has voted to hold bi-monthly meetings. Secretary H. M. Caslowitz '28 is acting as program chairman.

Pittsburgh's Annual

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Brown Club of Western Pennsylvania was held at the University Club, Pittsburgh, Feb. 27. It was attended by: Les Joyner '37, Harry Soper '25, Bill Kittredge '33, Bob Schaper '40, Leon Payne '07, Don Clark '09, Stuart Sherman '28, Gordon Ritchie '24, Ralph Larry '06, Dave McCahill '38, Oliver Jennings '05, John Harper '28, Bob Mullans '28, and Irv Pascal '34.

We were fortunate in having with us the following guests: Bill Rust, who had just received his commission (Ensign) at Brown a few days before this meeting; Phil Bray, of the class of '48, who was back in Pittsburgh between semesters; Frank Price '47, who enrolled under the V-12 program at Brown a year ago but was transferred to Cornell, and was home on leave; and Danny Winters, who is heading for Brown in September of 1946.

The business meeting was called to order by our president, Leon Payne. We were all agreeably surprised to learn that we had $397 in our scholarship fund. It was decided that we would attempt to have a luncheon meeting at least once every two months.

The nominating committee, represented by Bill Kittredge, then announced its nominations for officers for 1944-46, and these were as follows: President—Harry Soper; Vice President—Robert Schaper; Secretary—Irving Pascal; Treasurer—Robert Mullans. The officers unanimously elected, Harry Soper then carried out the retiring president's suggestion in appointing Les Joyner and Stuart Sherman as the entertainment committee. Kittredge was named publicity chairman.

The Providence Trophy

THE PROVIDENCE Brown Club Trophy, emblematic of supremacy in schoolboy basketball in Rhode Island, was awarded in March to the East Providence High School. Brown's varsity coach, Rip Engle, made the presentation for the Club at a student assembly.

Don't Blame the Church

IT WAS BROWN'S fault that the Baptist Society in Providence resorted to a lottery in order to finance the building of the Meeting House, said John Hutchins Cady '03 in a recent feature story in the Providence Sunday Journal. Original financing plans were along orthodox lines, but when a larger building was designed in order to accommodate our commencements more money was needed. An additional L2000 was raised by lottery "to enable the said Society to carry out their pious designs into execution."

Under the circumstances, Mr. Cady suggests, it was rather unkind of a speaker in later years "to compliment Brown University as having been established by voluntary money bequests and sacrifices, while the First Baptist Meeting House was built by a lottery."

In the Mail

Dear Sir:

I'm glad you used the photo of John Paul Sweeney getting his medal for heroism for several reasons, one of them being that it calls attention to the fact that there are boys from the fleet in the Navy unit at Brown.

Wouldn't you be willing to give us the whole story on the episode which won him the award?

New York '16

We will and gladly, quoting from the citation from the Chief of Naval Personnel: "The Bureau takes pleasure in forwarding the Navy and Marine Corps Medal and ribbon bar for your services set forth on the following occasion:

"For extremely heroic and courageous conduct while aiding in the rescue of one, and in attempting to save the life of another survivor of a crashed plane during the night of 3 April 1944. When a Navy scout bomber crashed into the water while attempting to land on the flight deck of a carrier, the plane sank as members of the crew cleared the wreckage. John Paul Sweeney, on seeing that both survivors were swimming, in obvious distress, with uninflated life jackets, immediately dived into the cold water and proceeded to the point where he had last sighted the pilot of the plane. Before aid could reach him, the pilot collapsed and disappeared below the surface. Unable to locate the sinking pilot, Sweeney swam around the ship to the opposite side where he assisted another volunteer swimmer in the rescue of the remaining survivor. John Paul Sweeney's courageous and instinctive actions performed at the peril of his own life were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

Dear Editor:

I have been very pleased with the quality and type of publicity Brown has been getting here in the mid-West particularly since Dr. Wriston took the helm. Usually I fail to clip the stuff, but here are a couple of recent pieces that point the moral. Your MONTHLY continues execellent.

Brunonians Far and Near

1877

▸ ▸ In a tribute to the late Asa Eldredge Goddard, whose death Dec. 2, 1945, closed the active list of the Class, the Rev. Everett K. Bray spoke of him as educator, as teacher and leader in church and Sunday school classes, and as neighbor and citizen. "The responsibilities of citizenship he took seriously, as a sacred trust, as a spiritual as well as moral, social and civic obligation," said Mr. Bray, whose memorial has been printed in full in The New-Church Messenger. "He had rounded out a full life with useful service to his fellow men."

1878

George F. Weston, now living at 466 Snyder Ave., San Jose 10, Calif., had "an ill turn" at the time of the recent annual meeting of the Brown Club of Alta California, but we were glad to have a letter early in March that assured us he was "all right again." He has been looking forward to a new issue of the Brown Historical Catalogue, which would have been published in 1944 had that been a normal year, but he does not expect it under war conditions. (Alumni addresses are so changeable these days that an alumni directory would be out of date before the printer could set type on it.)

An exchange of valentine compliments between Dr. William H. Tolman and Rev. Frank A. Everett:

Tolman to Everett

Roses are red, violets are blue, but you are YOU.
Attributes other, gracious, kindly and true, not a few.
You display for pleasure to others who come into view.
But in summary fine, the balance is this: You are You.

Everett to Tolman

I is I and U is U.
Thank the Lord that this is true.
If I was U and U was me,
What a mess for both of we.

A vigorous letter against the proposed conscription of youth to a recent issue of The Argonaut (San Francisco) carried the signature of Nathaniel Blaisdell. "If the Congress votes the President authority to corral one million boys 17 or 18 years of age and brand them with the 'mark of Cain,' that act will spell the doom of most of the small colleges and many of the larger ones," he wrote. He gave figures to prove his point, asked if "the under-baked doughboy" after a year of training under "tough top sergeants" and corrupted by the influences common to army life in peace time "will be in the mood to enter college or have any desire for its culture or refinements."

Your Secretary records with regret the death of Walter Willcutt Burnham in Providence, Feb. 8, and extends to his family the earnest sympathy of the Class. Suddenly stricken while at home, our classmate had apparently been in good physical condition. Mrs. Burnham has been temporarily with her son, Walter H. Burnham '08.

Once a Geologist

▸ Scattering of former Brown students in all parts of the world has brought benefit to the University's Department of Geology in that alumni have sent specimens of ores and other minerals from such distant places as Guadalcanal, India, New Caledonia, Alaska's Seward Peninsula, Prince of Wales Island, and Cananea, Mexico.

Among the donors reported by Prof. Alonzo Quinn are: H. C. Adams '43, A. B. Cleaves '27, P. L. Killeen '29, R. G. Ray, Graduate School '43, and G. H. Wilson '39. Some are in military service, others geologists on governmental or private explorations for strategic minerals. ◂

Professor Emeritus L. Raymond Higgins, whose eyesight is not as strong as he would like to have it, finds great enjoyment in the phonograph "Talking Records," furnished by the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind. His selections cover philosophy, science, history, essays, and poetry. Our classmate is at Ward Homestead, Maplewood, N. J.

1886

Norman Gunderson took a bow at the March meeting of the Boston Brown Club which he attended. The old time varsity baseball player still looked in the pink, according to one informant, although he said he couldn't quite pitch a full game this early in the season.

1891

George J. Holden is a member of the Board of Managers of the Rhode Island Society, Sons of the American Revolution, for 1945-46.

1893

President Edward H. Weeks of Providence Rotary Club was chairman of the 1945 Brotherhood Week luncheon held in Providence attended by 200 members of civic clubs and community groups.

1894

Henry M. Barry tells us that "on the distaff side we have some eight nephews of the second or third generation in uniform, so even if it were not for rationing we'd not be unmindful that a war is going on. One youngster who turned 18 in the early fall is a sort of borrowed son of ours, for he lived with us for more than a year while here in the FBI and attending George Washington University." Barry is looking forward to a summer vacation at Randolph "in the beloved old Green Mountain State," and adds: "Of course no driving to and from, just a night aboard the sleeper, but not F.O.B. these days." The Barry address in Washington is 2811 34th Place, N.W., and the postal zone is 7.

Chancellor Henry D. Sharpe has been re-elected as Vice President of the Providence Journal Co. He is also a director.

Theron Clark, retired as Registrar of the University of Southern California, is living at 2110 Ridgeview Ave., (Eagle Rock) Los Angeles 41, Calif. "Best wishes to all friends," he said in a recent note.

"Reserved, thorough, yet always kindly, he has piloted hundreds of Wesleyan men through the field of astronomy," said a writer about our late classmate, Dr. Frederick Slocum, in the January issue of the Wesleyan University Alumnus. "The thoroughness which was characteristic of his teaching will always be cherished by many of his former students, especially those now serving in the armed forces whose knowledge of navigation once learned under him on Observatory Hill may one day mean the difference between life and death."

Your Secretary records with regret the death in Bradenton, Fla., Jan. 7, 1945, of the Rev. Fred A. Robinson, pastor emeritus of the First Baptist Church, West Boylston, Mass., and extends to his family the deep sympathy of the Class.

Charles A. Harris, retired, occupies much of his time at his home in Fairhaven, Mass., compiling war scrapbooks, checking and filing data on Fairhaven history, and adding to his collection of manuscript textbooks and the like. He has eight volumes on the Spanish-American War, 19 on the current war, and 13 on oldtime Fairhaven. "He didn't compile scrapbooks on the First World War," said a feature story in the New Bedford Standard-Times, "having other cares at that period." His data on town history, all neatly indexed, increases in value and interest as time goes on.

Frank N. Cady has retired, we are told, and is living at 36 Seventh St., New Bedford, Mass.

Your Secretary, George L. Miner, is again serving as Treasurer of the Providence Charitable Fuel Society. He was re-elected at the society's 118th annual meeting.

Capt. E. Benjamin Gammons, FA, son of John A. Gammons and Mrs. Gammons of East Greenwich, has won the Bronze Star "for heroic achievement in operations against the enemy in France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany."

"The box office appeal of Garden games, Rose Bowl, Orange Bowl and Cabbage Bowl contests," said U. S. District Attorney George F. Troy in a letter to the Providence Journal when the basketball scandal broke in New York recently, "certainly hereafter should be courageously disregarded by the authorities of those colleges who have at times fallen for its lure. ▸ Cpl. Robert DeWolf, USMCR, son of the late Paul C. DeWolf '05 and Mrs. DeWolf, has been in the Palau Islands "doing a heavy job of work so important that Marine Corps headquarters has deemed it worth a special mention in despatches." At the time, Bob was running a caterpillar tractor clearing away wreckage of Jap pillboxes, coral rocks and anything else that stood in the path of American ground or air traffic. He praised the Brown-Rhode Island State athletic heads for playing the big basketball game between the two in "the narrow limits of Marvel Gymnasium where the box office receipts will be about one-sixth of what would pour in were their game to be held in a 'Garden' or 'Bowl'."

Julian Chase, with the Automotive Division, Chilton Co., publishers and printers in Philadelphia, was a campus visitor in late February. "Just a few minutes to look things over casually," was his description. His son Bob '33, one of Brown's star football players of recent years, is Lt., USNR, and is somewhere in the Pacific as Communications Officer on an Admiral's staff.

Arthur Wakefield writes he is with the Credit Union, Curtiss Wright Propeller Division, in Caldwell and Clifton, N. J., and that his preferred mail address is 178 Roseland Ave., Caldwell.

Your Secretary records with regret the death in Brookline, Mass., Aug. 12, 1944, of Ralph Standish Bryden, and extends to his family the belated but sincere sympathy of the Class. Our classmate, an invalid for several years, had been an insurance agent in Boston.

Rev. Kenneth R. Forbes is currently on duty in the Episcopal Diocese of Philadelphia, and lives at 41 Rex Ave., Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia 18, Pa.

President Harvey N. Davis of Stevens Institute of Technology has begun his second six-year term on the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution. "Among the most eminent of American scientists," said Representative Cannon of Missouri in the House at the time of reappointment.

Arthur Whittemore, son of our late classmate, A. H. (Buck) Whittemore, came to Providence Feb. 27 as a member of the two-piano team of Whittemore and Lowe. He and his partner appeared under the auspices of the Community Concert Association and gave, the Providence Journal reviewer said, "a very fine program. . . . For the first time in our concert going, we are of the opinion that whenever Whittemore and Lowe are playing, two pianos are twice as good as one."

Russell W. Richmond has resumed his duties as Judge of Probate in East Providence after recovery from illness that sent him to hospital last December.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Blackler of Winchester, Mass., have announced the engagement of Mrs. Blackler's daughter, Miss Shirley Lund, to Fred A. Otis, Jr., BM 2c, USCGR, son of our Class Secretary and Mrs. Otis. Fred, Jr., is stationed in Boston.

John Hutchins Cady has been re-elected as President of the Proprietors of Swan Point Cemetery, Providence.

Sgt. Raymond Chappell, son of the Rev. C. Raymond Chappell and Mrs. Chappell, is in the Machine Records Unit, 13th AAF, stationed in the Molucca Islands, Netherlands East Indies. "He writes that he would very much like to see some snow. Well, I'd be glad to have some of it shipped out there," his father reported from East Northfield, Mass., where he and Mrs. Chappell were enjoying a belated vacation in snow-filled February.

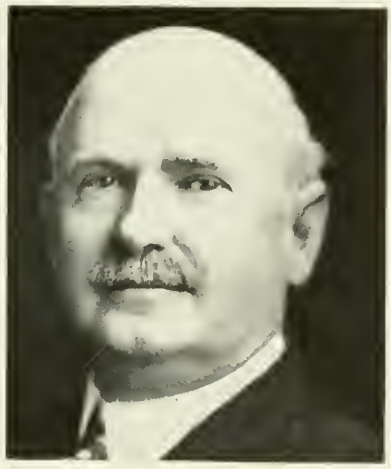
Henry W. Corp became a free man again when American soldiers broke into Santo Tomas internment camp at Manila. A telegram to his son, Henry W. Corp, Jr., and relayed to his brother, Alfred E. Corp '11, brought the good news. Heinie is in fair health. Mrs. Corp is also safe, but nothing had been heard from the daughter, Mrs. Hokeson, who was in a different camp.

At the annual meeting of the Advisory Council of the Associated Alumni on the Hill just before winter Commencement were Henry G. Clark, Victor A. Schwartz and William P. Both Schwartz and Burnham wanted it understood that they were at the Brown-Dartmouth football game last fall, previous report to the contrary.



Ending a Chapter

▸ DR. CLARENCE M. GALLUP '96, for 20 years pastor of the Central Baptist Church in Providence and for 33 years a charter member, manager and secretary of the Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Board of the Northern Baptist Convention, has retired from his formal connection with the Board. (He retains his position as recording secretary of the Convention.) On the recent occasion of his retirement, the Board tendered Dr. Gallup a testimonial luncheon, which was largely attended by denominational officials and New York business men and women.

Missions and Tomorrow magazines both referred to his services in laudatory articles. A souvenir which Dr. Gallup prizes is a beautiful engrossed copy of the Board's resolutions on his retirement. ◂

Sheldon J. Howe's son, John Burnham Howe, graduate last June of Deerfield Academy, is on duty with the AAF at Keesler Field, Miss. "Technically he is a Freshman at Princeton, having been accepted for their aviation engineering program last April," Sheldon told us in a note from Deerfield, where he is master in history.

Prof. Harlan T. Stetson was author of "Passengers on the Planet Earth" in the March issue of Free World. We're hurtling through space, origins unknown and destination unknown, he said, but are turning to the cosmos for various resources as we use up our own.

Walter H. Burnham's father, Walter W. Burnham '83, for many years one of the best known Providence city officials, died suddenly at the Burnham home in Providence, Feb. 8. All of us give Walter and his family our sincere sympathy.

Clarence R. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson are sending out from 18 Franklin Ave., Saranac Lake, N. Y., their Number 2 booklet anthology of "verses, sayings, and whatnot called 'Thoughts With Wings'." These anthologies, says W. T. Scott '31, literary editor of the Providence Journal, "sell by the thousands."

Mrs. A. K. Westervelt and her son, Bob, were Alumni Office visitors at February's end, coming from Ames, Ia. They went on a tour of Sayles Hall, where they stood longest before the portraits of President Faunce and Chief Justice Hughes. Westy has never forgotten Prexy Faunce, and Prexy's influence upon him. Chief Justice Hughes' picture was of interest because Charlie, Jr., is an '09 man—and '09 men keep contact with one another. One of the Westervelt daughters intends to become a Cadet Nurse. Westy runs the Westervelt Grocery, 110 Hyland St., and lives at 103 Campus in Ames, which is a busy college town.

The Providence Agency of Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co., which includes Al Leach and Stuart Bugbee, has won the Directors' Cup "for outstanding, all-around achievement in 1944." The trophy is the highest honor which can be won by any of the company's branch offices. The Providence branch "made a notable record in the development of new men . . . and earned an especially excellent rating in 1944 for servicing life insurance previously placed."

We are glad to report that Chet Nourse, who has been away from his work as the result of a long illness, is now feeling fit enough to be back on the job again.

At the 1945 Alumni Advisory Council meeting on the campus Feb. 24, '09 as usual had the largest number present of all classes represented — Messrs. Wheeler, Boyce, Burgess, Buss, Crossley, Sherwood and Chafee.

The Day When Freedom Returned

▸▸ "THE GLORIOUS DAY of our delivery came at 9 p.m., Saturday, (Feb. 3), when our brave troops, only 650 in number, broke through the entire Jap army about Manila, and freed us," wrote William A. Weidman '12 to his brother, Robert A. Weidman, in Providence four days after getting out of Santo Tomas. "We are alive and well and in good spirits. The suffering has been great. . . . The average loss of weight for men was 51 pounds; for women 32 pounds." He himself dropped from 180 to 112 pounds. "When I take a bath and look down at my ribs like a corrugated washboard, I wonder if it is my body I'm washing."

He also said that the Japs broke open the Red Cross kits with food in them, ate what they liked, and destroyed the rest. "Food sent us by friends outside the camps was turned back. We were told we did not deserve any more because it was needed by Filipinos in the city." When Weidman was interned, he was credit manager of the Pacific Commercial Co., an importing firm. Since graduation, he's been in the Philippines as teacher and business man. ◂

Speaking before the Economic Club of Montreal, President W. Randolph Burgess of the American Bankers' Association asked for the establishment of a world organization strong enough to see that peace in the future is assured. "We must go ahead now and do a complete cleanup so that the lesson is well and thoroughly rubbed in," he said. "Then we must so organize ourselves in mind and heart and the machinery of life that we shall never again be so unready." A serious danger, he pointed out, is that "having set up an organization we may walk off and leave it to be run by civil servants and consider our job done. Even a perfect set of international organizations will not work unless we stay on the job and make them work. Our task has just begun."

Maj. Wiley H. Marble, CE, doing duty as Special Services officer at Hq, Adriatic Depot, Italy, has already begun to turn his attention to baseball "hard and soft". 28 Days Later for Chobanian

▸ ALTHOUGH INJURED abdominally when his amphibious tractor was overturned by enemy shell fire and high swells in the initial assault on Saipan, Marine First Lieutenant Keran Melvyn Chobanian '45 continued in the campaign for 28 days until complications forced his hospitalization. He was returned to the States for hospitalization at Long Beach.

Flung into the water with such force that his life jacket was destroyed, he struggled for several minutes in the shell-swept waves on that Saipan D-Day. A life jacket drifted within reach. He grabbed it and saw it boldly marked "No. 13."

"It is certainly my lucky number," he said. "It kept me afloat for two hours, until I was picked up by a passing amphibious tractor."

Lieutenant Chobanian was taken to a hospital ship for treatment. "I didn't stay," he said. "There were many men more badly in need of space aboard that ship." He slipped into a boat, went ashore, re-joined his unit, and stayed with it. ◂

Candidates for President ◄ ◄

tive and from every evidence has done much to stabilize rental values."

"The engineers of the Class of 1915 and thereabouts," writes R. E. Copeland from New Haven, Conn., "will be interested to know that Prof. Hardy Cross heads up engineering at Yale and is considered the authority on structures. If you come here, drop in and see him. He'll surprise you by remembering you, especially if you pulled an A or even a B in his Brown course on structures." Copeland is head of the Copeland Co., industrial flooring, at 185 Church St., New Haven. He lives at 15 Haverford St., Hamden, and is "raising two boys, 16 and 12."

Maj. Ralph L. Blanchard is attached to Hq, 101st Airborne Division, as a Civil Affairs Officer. He's seen a great deal of the suffering among civilians in France as a result of the German occupation, and has written graphic letters to Mrs. Blanchard at 27 John St., Providence, of his observations over there.

George E. C. Hayes has been appointed to the Board of Education in Washington, D. C. He is a member of the law firm of Cobb, Howard & Hayes, and is President of the Washington branch of the National Association for Advancement of the Colored People. He is also a member of the Faculty of Howard University Law School.

The Class congratulates Dr. Sharon O. Brown on his promotion to a full professorship on the Hill, where, except for an interval as an editorial writer on the Providence News Tribune, now defunct, he has been teaching English since 1923.

President Gordon K. Chalmers of Knox College holds that "the proper basis of the study of liberties in the modern time is a literary education" in a piece written for the New York Herald Tribune. "If the schools of the country in outlining education in citizenship should follow the intellectual process whereby the mightiest political discoveries have been made," he says, "they would build the curriculum on reading and writing and devote sufficient attention to these neglected subjects, even if to do so meant to postpone to college and graduate school some of the important descriptions of society and 'culture.' Like mathematics, which equips a youth to deal with science, reading and writing equip him to deal with political freedom. . . . Among all the studies it provides the most exacting and thorough training in judgment of what is nearer right than wrong, what tends to virtue, what to its opposite. So one proper purpose of a literary education is citizenship."

Senior's Milestone

▸ BROWN'S SENIOR ALUMNUS, Rev. Everett P. Mathewson '73, observed his 92nd birthday Jan. 24 at his home on Maple Court, Ashaway, R. I. He still serves as pastor of Pendleton Hill Baptist Church. Members of the church and Sunday school remembered him, and there was a birthday cake for him and a neighbor whose birthday was Jan. 25. ◂

Eric H. Lind is Purchasing Agent, American Thread Co., Willimantic, Conn., where he lives at 232 Lewiston Ave.

Walter M. Cobe is owner of Walter M. Cobe Cosmetics and treasurer of the National Children's Store, Inc., with his business address at 309 Broadway, Arlington, and his home at 109 Cross St., Belmont, Mass.

1st Lt. Albert F. Capelli is with the Amphibious Engineers in the Philippines, where he is in charge of the boat pool of the First Cavalry. "He was participating in a landing some 20 miles from Tacloban," said a recent story in the Providence Journal, "when two Jap planes dropped out of the clouds, dived on an LCI and loosed four bombs, one of which hit the ship. Al, who is in his 40's, jumped overboard from his LCVP to rescue a man he saw blown into the water." The strafing planes forced him "to submerge nearly five minutes in 30-second periods." Then came the shocking experience of finding the man in the water headless.

Raymond S. Lees is sales agent of Lawler Hosiery Mills, Carrollton, Ga., with his office and business address at Room 822, Empire State Bldg., 350 Fifth Ave., New York.

Bruce Chapman is one of the founders and organizers of "The Answer Man," a radio enterprise which operates in New York and Chicago, has an extensive library and a file "of 10,000 authorities on every known subject. Over 6,000 questions are answered each week at no charge to the enquirer." A radio columnist says that "every question which comes to 'The Answer Man' is answered, whether or not it is heard on the air, and it sometimes takes as long as six months of research to find the correct answer."

Isaak D. Orleans is a member of the staff of the Jewish Community Relations Committee in Newark, N. J. The Committee's aim is to "further the American way of life by working for better understanding among racial and religious groups." Orleans was formerly in charge of research for the Jewish Occupational Council in New York.

Walter V. Brown, on special assignment to American Tel. & Tel. Co., 195 Broadway, New York, lives at 31 Alden Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

"Extremely busy running a disbursing office in Paris," wrote Capt. Roger H. Case in mid-February, with the notation that our letter dated Dec. 7 had just reached him. He and Stan Smith '28 had been in touch by telephone, and were looking for a chance to get together. "So far every day (all of four since the first of October) I have had off has been stormy," he commented. "No hardships of mud, ice and snow, but I do know the difficulties of working without heat. Our office was also very close to being without lights, but the French acceded to our requests."

1928

George E. Adams has returned to Rhode Island and is living at 55 Columbia Ave., Gaspee Plateau 5. He's sales representative of the Marvin Division, E. F. Drew & Co., Inc., a big chemical concern with offices in New York, Chicago, and Boston.

Thurston Towle represents Louis F. Dow Co., advertising, in the Rhode Island area. We were sorry to read of the death of his father, Dr. Bernard L. Towle, well known Pawtucket physician and yachtsman, on Feb. 6. The Class extends its sympathy. Thurt and his family—he has a son, Fred, who will be 15 next June—live at 233 Taber Ave., Providence.

Lee Parsons Davis, Jr., is an engineer with Westchester Lighting Co., New Rochelle, N. Y.

Good to shake hands and talk with Joseph L. Strauss, Jr., who made a quick trip to the campus as representative of the Brown Club of Chicago to the Advisory Council of the Associated Alumni. Joe appeared at the afternoon session, took part in the discussion dealing with proposed changes in the makeup of the ALUMNI MONTHLY (printing is his specialty, you know), and met several acquaintances of college years. Paul H. Hodge was also there as President of the Brown Club of Providence.

Bradford G. Woolley is a partner of the Hammel-Dahl Co., Providence, which the Providence Journal in a recent feature story described as "an engineering specialty outfit . . . manufacturing special automatic devices that large control manufacturers would not touch because they were not equipped to do the engineering." The company has had many unusual contracts to fill, and has filled them by overcoming all obstacles along its pioneering path. "That's where we got all our gray hair," Brad told the Journal reporter.

A. W. Marten reports a change of house address to Aintree Park, South Euclid P. O., Cleveland 21, O. Al is still hard at work in the Investment Department, Cleveland Trust Co.

News this month centers around a brief meeting of the Committee for the 15th Reunion of the Class of 1930. This was held on March 7th in Providence and six members attended. During the conversation which lasted into the wee small hours, we learned that Aaron Roitman and Irving Disraelly, both of whom are in the Navy, are overseas in active service. Lt. (jg) Charlie Paine is now serving as a Cargo Officer in California after being stationed in New Jersey. The report was that Mrs. Paine had had twins recently, but exact confirmation was lacking.

During the discussion of political parties, it came out that Ray Rawlinson is now President of the Republican Club in Cranston and Moe Hendel is the "only non-elected Democrat who ran for City Council in Providence." Moe, however, argues that this is no disgrace, since he is in what is known as the "silk stocking district," only it has gone rayon for the duration.

One of the attendants in the group was Jim Hart who recently drew his honorable discharge from the Marine Corps. Jim was a lieutenant stationed down in North Carolina where he was doing engineering work. At the present time he's living in Newton and hopes shortly to be embarked on a business career that takes him back to his old heavy equipment machinery.

Rumor also had it that Mack Walling will come very close to being Secretary of Labor if Miss Perkins ever resigns. Information that came in through the Alumni Office indicates that Capt. Bob Uhle is now in the Caribbean. At about the same time we heard from Freddie Winkler who has been missing from our records for some time. He is with Newman & Bisco, 29 Broadway, New York. However, he prefers to be addressed at 1316 Madison Ave., New York 28. Freddie is of course an active member of the firm.

Among the new addresses was a report from Myron S. Hackett that he is now living at 26 Corwin Avenue, New Hyde Park, New York, and his business address which is his favorite place to receive his mail is 4 Irving Place, New York.

Lt. (jg) Bob Rosenberg, USNR, who used to live in Cambridge, now reports that he is at 2133 St. James Place, Phila-

Skin-Deep Prosperity

▸ S/SGT. MICHAEL COOPER'S family has let us see some of his fine, descriptive letters from Italy. When Mike, Brown '46, went to Rome for a rest period he found the city filled with healthy-looking people and stores apparently well stocked. "However," he wrote, "the prosperity is definitely skin deep. Prices are high: $5 for two pounds of flour or dirty brown sugar; $2 for the same amount of spaghetti; $37 for a pair of men's shoes; $50 for a woman's sweater." After paying $2 for a meal of three eggs, potatoes, coffee, Mike thereafter ate in G. I. restaurants in town — "regular Italian restaurants staffed by Italians serving Army food in style. No waiting in chow lines, messkit in hand." He spent seven days in the rest camp. ◂

Two-Minute Switch

▸ IT TOOK JUST 120 seconds to get quarter-ton bombs thudding into the enemy held Juelich Sportpalast after the 29th Division had asked fighter-bomber support, said a December news story. Three flights of 29th TAC fighter-bombers were circling Schophoven, waiting for the 30th Division radio to approve another target, when the 29th Division called Maj. David R. McGovern '37, the 29th Air Corps Support Officer. Maj. McGovern was about to call for fresh air support when the 30th Division decided it didn't need the fighters. At a nod from McGovern, S/Sgt. Joseph A. Buckling, Jr., of Staunton, Ill., radioed the fighters over Schophoven to fly north and attack the Sportpalast.

P.S.—Dave is now Lt. Col., his promotion having come on his birthday, Feb. 12. In a recent letter to his mother he said that he thought "we have the Jerries on the run." ◂ delphia, and his naval address is the Navy Yard, Philadelphia.

Gus Williams has come back to Boston to work, although he reports no permanent house address. He is at present connected with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company as a District Engineer and his business address is 175 Berkeley Street, Boston 17.

George Gilbert is a communication liaison officer with a Navy Armed Guard unit, Lt. (jg) R. A. Hurley, Jr. '32 told us in a recent V-mail. Rip is doing similar duty.

Traveling in quest of features for the Providence Evening Bulletin, Robert M. Howard sent home a fine story in January from Marietta, Ga., about the country's largest assembly of B-29s.

John T. Cushing is West Coast sales manager for Thew Shovel Co., Lorrain, O., with which he has been associated since leaving college. His office is at 1204 Russ Bldg., San Francisco, and his house at 144 Briar Lane, San Mateo, Calif.

Anthony Ross is a member of the cast of "Glass Menagerie," now playing in New York after a long run in Chicago. Eddie Dowling is the star. Ross is Meyer C. Rosenthal's stage name.

"When Charlie Spilman wrote about the Christmas out there (New Guinea), I was thinking of the Christmas his family had without Charlie," said Lanning, the Providence Evening Bulletin cartoonist in his feature, "Brightening His Corner," about our war correspondent. "His little girl goes to school with mine, and Leana often tells about Carolyn's dad, but 'a lot can't be told because it's a military secret,'" so we'll have to wait until Mr. Spilman gets back. ". . . Charlie and the work he is doing is further proof of a contention of mine—the nicest guys are generally those with the most on the ball."

Dr. Richard S. M Emrich of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., was a preacher at one of the famous Lenten noonday services at Grace Church, Providence, in February. He has attained new eminence in the Episcopal Church as author of "The Presiding Bishop's Book for Lent."

Lt. Frederic W. Ripley, Jr., MC, USNR, is somewhere in the Marianas in the Pacific area. "Best wishes to everybody," he wrote on his card giving his mail address, Navy 3245, c/o Fleet PO, San Francisco.

Paul W. Havener is a partner of Mallory, Adee & Co., brokers, with his office at 120 Broadway, New York, and his home in Huntington, L. I.

Everett M. Seixas, Jr., was reported as killed in action in the European area in the casualty list we read in the New York Herald Tribune of Tuesday, March 6. Mrs. Seixas had her address given as 60 Perry St., New York. We did not know that Ev, who had been practicing law in New York, was in service. The War Department list ranked him as T/5. The Class gives its sympathy in full measure to Mrs. Seixas.

1933

Neal W. Hughes is with the U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., where he lives at 1426 21st St., N.W. He's a meteorologist in the Special Forecast Section.

Pfc. Mortimer L. Taylor is an artilleryman with the 14th F.A. Obs. Bn., overseas.

Mutual Life Comptroller

▸ J. McCall Hughes '33, has been appointed comptroller of The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, it was announced by Lewis W. Douglas, president, in March. Mr. Hughes served with the Bankers Trust Company in New York City until 1939, when he became associated with the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Company of St. Louis, Mo. He was later appointed to the post of auditor. He became associated with The Mutual Life in March, 1943, as administrative assistant to the executive vice-president, and in December, 1944, he was named associate comptroller. ◂

Star for a Ranger

▸ Posthumous award of the Silver Star for gallantry in action has been made to Capt. Jonathan H. Harwood, Jr. '40, killed in action on D-Day in France. He landed with the first assault waves of the Rangers as a forward observer for artillery fire, and "without regard for his own safety on numerous occasions exposed himself to intense enemy fire in order to reach suitable positions from which to adjust supporting naval fire. While carrying out a fire mission he was mortally wounded by a direct hit on his observation post. The gallantry and devotion to duty displayed by Captain Harwood reflects great credit upon himself and the military service." ◂

Vincent DiMase is with the U. S. Engineers at 819 Industrial Trust Bldg., Providence.

Capt. Tilden B. Mason, FA, has been in the thick of the fighting on Luzon as a staff officer with Rhode Island's best known field artillery unit. His chief is Lt. Col. William B. McCormick '23.

Lt. Edwin L. Read, Jr., USNR, reports his current mail address is 3917 Lake Forest Drive, N.E., Atlanta, Ga.

As this was written, Richard C. Hart was heading for Broadway in a new play, "Dark of the Moon," based on a hillbilly tale about Barbara Allen, who married a witch boy. Dick is the witch boy—the leading role. It's a difficult role, according to Bradford F. Swan, Providence Journal reviewer, who saw the piece in Boston. "It calls for a little of everything, but most of all for the ability to dominate every scene in which the witch boy appears. Furthermore, the part has to be endowed with an eerie intensity, and it is this quality in which Mr. Hart excels." Life magazine had some pictures of Dick in the original production some months ago.

Jack Depres has been re-appointed by Governor J. Howard McGrath to the Rhode Island State Advisory Council for the Blind for the term ending March 1, 1950.

Dr. John H. Young is reported to be assistant to the chief welfare officer at Moses Wells Refugee Camp for Greeks near Cairo, Egypt. A story in his home town newspaper, the Springfield, Mass., Union, said he was doing many things in addition to his regular duties, one of which was teaching an English class which he organized. During last fall he had 250 students. He went to the American School of Classical Studies at Athens after receiving his Master's degree at Harvard, came home to win his Ph.D. at the Johns Hopkins University, and joined the Greek War Relief here as an organizer of relief units in the eastern United States. Mrs. Young, graduate of Byrn Mawr, is with him in Cairo.

Capt. Nathan W. Coleman, MC, has been on duty at the Redistribution Center, Camp Butner, N. C.

Lt. Irving A. Hirsch is an editor of Army Talk, a publication of the Special Services put out in Paris.

Lt. Douglas Widnall, USNR, at Quonset for a two-weeks course, was back on the campus one day in February. He's had his current rank since last December. Among Brown men he has met are: Monk Gordon '34, a destroyer officer, whom he saw when he flew into Kingston, Jamaica; Lt. (jg) John J. Cooney, Jr., a Navy ordnance officer also seen in the British West Indies; and Capt. Mal Ball '35, Tank Corps, spotted on leave in New York.

Lt. (jg) Palmer App, Doug's former roommate, was in Italian waters aboard an LST when he mailed his Christmas card.

Lt. (jg) Benjamin H. Cate, Jr., USNR, was in Providence for a short leave in mid-February.

Evan Crossley is now an Ensign, USNR, his father, Dr. M. L. Crossley '09, tells us.

Lt. William E. Ryan, USNAC, is on a carrier on active service in Pacific waters. He took part in the Lingayen Gulf fighting during the invasion of Luzon.

Grateful Hotel Man

▸ IT WAS on Vox Pop, of the radio, that a Brunonian gave thanks to his former dean. The program, revolving around the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York and facilitated behind the scenes by Publicity Director Walton M. Smith '24, consisted of a number of interviews that told the hotel man's side of what has come to be a Situation.

One of the staff interviewed was William L. Mulford '46, who was asked how he happened to get into hotel business. "The Dean at Brown told me I'd make a better hotel man than a student," he said frankly, and even gratefully. ◂

1st Lt. Myles L. Grover is on active duty with AA Maintenance Team No. 6, 3073rd OSCC, in the Pacific area. His APO is 322, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco.

Capt. Leonard R. Carpenter, Inf., has won the Silver Star for gallantry in action near Lindern, Germany. Cut off at the time from support, Len "displayed superior leadership and sound judgment, organized his unit's defensive positions so successfully that they held their ground despite being subjected to constant artillery, mortar, machine gun and tank fire for a period of nine hours." He is with the 84th (Railsplitters) Division.

Cpl. Robert C. Jones has been training with a cannon company of an infantry division down at Camp Van Dorn, Miss.

Lt. Charles B. Round, MC, is attached to the 137th QM Bn, Camp Butner, N. C. After receiving his M.D. at Harvard Medical School, Charlie was an interne at Rhode Island Hospital. He also served as assistant superintendent at the hospital and at the Walsh-Kaiser shipyard before going into the Army.

Lt. (jg) Gilbert R. Siiro, USNR, is on duty aboard the USS Lunga Point, and is getting his mail in care of the Fleet PO, San Francisco, Calif.

R. Josef Novogrod, salary and wage analyst with the Office of the Secretary of War, Civilian Personnel Division, is working out of Room 2412, Munitions Bldg., Washington, D. C., after having been at the Area Inspector Office in New York for some time. His territory now covers all the States. Both Army and Navy rejected him for service for physical reasons.

Derek Tubman is with Maxwell House Division, General Foods Corp., with his office at 88 Front St., New York 5, and his home at 127 Channing Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y.

New addresses: John H. Harley, 8420 Lindbergh Ave., Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Irving I. Magid, 1543 Michigan Ave., Miami Beach, Fla. Magid, married last November to Miss Gertrude Vernon, is a salesman for H. Farr, real estate broker.

Lt. Joseph I. Cooper, USNR, is attached to the staff of the Commander of the U. S. Naval Forces in Europe. Of his marriage in London in January you will read in another column of this issue of the ALUMNI MONTHLY.

Lt. (jg) Edmund R. East, USNR, is on the administrative staff of the U. S. Naval Prison, Portsmouth Navy Yard, N. H., after having done a long hitch on PT boats. He's in his element now, as he had been in prison administration work in Federal and State institutions since he left Brown.

Samuel J. McDonald, Jr., is Personnel Manager, Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., with his office at 60 Boston St., Salem, and his home at 290 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass. "Never a dull moment here," he said in a recent letter, "as my job includes all phases of personnel, which are many during war time." Sam is a member of the North Shore Brown Club, and attends the luncheons and meetings of the Brown Club of Boston when he can do so.

Lt. Monroe E. Fagan, Jr., USNR came home to Cranston for a 30-day furloogh, his first trip back after three years in the Southwest Pacific. In March he was awaiting orders.

1st Lt. William W. Hay, Jr., is somewhere in Italy with the 900th Sep. Bn, A.A. (A.W.), Bill's father reports from 511 West 112th St., New York.

S/Sgt. Ralph P. Semonoff is out in the Philippines with an SS Bn, and gets his mail through APO 72, San Francisco. "Met Frank O'Shannick on the way here entirely by accident," he said in his V-mail letter, "and we had a delightful chat about old times at Brown." He asked for (and we have sent) names and addresses of Brown men whom he might run across in his area.

Lt. (jg) Edward H. Ziegler, Jr. DC, USNR, is on duty at Camp Bradford, Norfolk, Va. Ed won his Doctor of Dental Surgery degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1943, served his internship at Roosevelt Hospital, New York, and went into the Navy Dental Corps a year ago next month. He and Mrs. Ziegler live at 5th and Atlantic Ave., Virginia Beach, Va.

Pfc. Wesley F. Roberts, USA, reports a change of address to 87 St. Botolph St., Boston.

Charlie Kramer is now Lt. (jg), USNR. He's already taken part in several Pacific invasions as a member of an LST crew, and hopes to keep right on going to the Japanese mainland. Charlie had been two years in Harvard Law School when he withdrew to enlist in the Navy in October, 1941.

T/3 Arthur S. Gurney, CE, was back on the campus the last week in February for the first time in over a year. He arrived in time to sit in with Emery Walker at the meetings of the Advisory Council of the Associated Alumni, but couldn't stay for the winter Commencement. His Army job in New Mexico continues strictly hush-hush.

Lt. David B. Wilmot, AC, prisoner of war at Stalag Luft III, Germany, was keeping "busy and well," according to his last letter, a copy of which we have seen, thanks to Dave's father, Sydney Wilmot '09. He recorded arrival of "a second pocket book shipment, up to August, I think," and said housewives would be "surprised at some of the things that are cooked." He noted "raisins and salmon cooked together," and said he had heard of "chocolate in mashed potatoes." The last concoction had no appeal whatever to Dave. A plan of Dave's to carry on his studies in finance, begun at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, wasn't working out because the necessary books had not come through.

T/Sgt. Ted Lemeshka is on duty at Old Farms Convalescent Hospital, Avon, Conn. "It's good to be stationed so close to home," he wrote. It must be, after many months with a mobile hospital unit in the SWPA.

1940

1st Lt. George W. Williams is attached to the staff of a Major General in the Central Pacific area after having spent two years in the Hawaiian sector. George's specialty is coast artillery, we understand.

Joe Mason, Jr., with the Propeller Division, Curtiss-Wright Corp., is living at 55 Academy Rd., Caldwell, N. J., which is nearer his work than his former location in Belleville.

Capt. Robert R. Clifford, AC, was still a Flight Commander at San Marcos, Tex., when we heard from him directly some time ago.

1st Lt. Donald S. McNeil, USMCR, back at the Marine Corp Air Depot, Miramar, Calif., in January after a tour of duty as a material officer for a fighter squadron, was looking forward to a leave that would enable him to see his son in Greenwich, Conn., for the first time. Don landed in Guam before Jap resistance was over. "The Japs put up a bitter fight to the end," he told a Marine Corps writer. "It was hard to convince them that we were determined to retake our former possession."

Francis L. McBride has been commissioned 2nd Lt., USMCR, and designated as a Naval Aviator at the NATB, Pensacola, Fla.

Lt. James R. Cronkhite was "still stationed in the hills of Tennessee," he wrote recently from the AAF Convalescent Hospital, Nashville. "An old friend says: 'You have been in Tennessee so long you ought to run for public office,'" he went on. Jim has been down there nearly two years, yet he considers the assignment temporary. "For three and a half years," he tells us, "I have been qualified and willing to go overseas, and have hardly been within rumor distance of a port of embarkation. . . . The quirks of fate."

Ens. Joseph Terranella, USNR, took part in both invasions of France as a member of the crew of an LCI. Joe was home on rest leave during the winter, we've been told.

Bob Trahan has the sympathy of the Class in the loss of his mother, Mrs. Anna L. (Sullivan) Trahan, who died in Providence, Feb. 3, 1945.

Maj. Robert T. Poole, AAF, had as his temporary address the AAF Distribution Center, Atlantic City, N. J., when he wrote at February's end.

Your Secretary records with regret the deaths of Sgt. David George Redford, MC, USA, and Maj. William Lincoln Glatfelter, 2nd, AC, and extends to their families the earnest sympathy of the Class. Maj. Glatfelter was killed in a plane crash near Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 7, 1945. Sgt. Redford was killed in action in the Pacific area, according to the meagre details we had at the time of this writing.

Lt. Robert L. Keedick, USNR, is skipper of a minesweeper and officer in tactical command of a task group of minesweepers in the SWPA. Bob, who enlisted in the Naval Reserve right after Pearl Harbor, had been out there for 21 months but came back to the campus while on leave in February.

Pete Laudati is now Capt. Peter A. Laudati, Jr., AC, stationed in Cairo, Egypt, with the 19th Weather Squadron. Pete has served two seasons as player-coach of his outfit's football team, and the Middle East edition of The Stars & Stripes has described him as "an all-around performer adept at jack rabbit running and sidestepping."

Johnny Mars is back again at Culver Academy as a member of the Faculty, we hear.

Lt. (jg) Emile A. LeGros, USNR, survived the sinking of the USS Ward in the Pacific area and got back to Chicago in mid-January for a needed rest. His note, asking us to send his Brown mail to his home, 1048 Chicago Ave., Oak Park, Ill., came as a great relief to all of us who knew he was on the Ward. "Best wishes for another year of your successful work," he ended Well, we cannot say anything better than that to him. Emile talked at a recent Chicago Brown Club luncheon.

2nd Lt. Norman J. (Jock) Morrison, Jr., AC, navigator, is a prisoner of war in Germany. He's been in Stalag Luft One, after having been captured on German soil following a raid in July, 1944. His son, Norman, arrived on New Year's Day. Mrs. Morrison is the former Josephine E. Hicks of Jackson, Mich.

Lt. Carl Barus, USNR, is on duty aboard one of the battleships in the Pacific area.

Capt. Paul G. Rohrdanz, OD, AUS, is attached to the 4505th AAF Base Unit, Kelly Field, Tex.

Lt. James H. Sands, USMCR, honorably discharged as a result of injuries suffered overseas, is with Eclipse Fuel Engineering Co., Rockford, Ill., where his house address is 2311 Cumberland St. Jim was with the Marines from May, 1941, to July, 1944.

Dick Starrett is with B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., Akron, and is currently getting his mail at Box 534, Hudson, O.

Pfc. Thomas P. Rockwell, writing from the Philippines in December, said: "I am now in the Philippines after spending a year in New Guinea and a few months in Australia. So far, since leaving the States, I haven't met a single Brown man." Tom is with the 336th Service Squadron (APO 321). He says that the Filipinos are very friendly, and that they had a rough time while the Japs were in control.

2nd Lt. Raymond E. Johnston is an intelligence officer with the 21st Air Force Bomber Command on Saipan. Ray took a photography course at Yale and went to the Intelligence School, Harrisburg, Pa., before going to his current post.

Capt. Harold A. Stege, USMCR, was

"Gentleman's War"

▸ "First of the Many," by Capt. John R. (Tex) McCrary and David E. Scherman, mentions Maj. David R. McGovern '37, AC, among the air heroes who carried the mail in the early part of the war. Dave was Rhode Island's first ace, you recall, and after fighting Japs in the Pacific and knocking them off in style, went to England to try his luck against the Luftwaffe. The book describes him "as a little like a 27-year-old Wallace Berry," and quotes him as saying that he was glad to leave the Japs and shift to England, where he hoped to find "a gentleman's war." Dave has been since promoted to Lt. Col. ◂

Rehabilitation Service

THE INSTITUTE OF LIVING, formerly the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute of the Hartford Retreat, prepares college men and women for future usefulness in the field of rehabilitation. Psychiatric Aides are valuable assistants in its educational program designed for those who need guidance in making a satisfactory readjustment to normal living. A background of practical experience in the psychiatric field combined with theoretical training should be essential for those whose professional advice may be sought by the returning serviceman or the war worker who needs help in solving his problem of adjusting to peacetime living. For information write to:

MISS PAULINE KLINE

BOSTON 15, MASSACHUSETTS

attached to the OC Bn., 5th Regiment, at Camp Lejeune, N. C., when we had word from him at the beginning of the year. He's married, you know, Mrs. Stege being the former Suzanne Judd Barlow.

Lt. (jg) William E. Fraser, MC, USNR, is on the staff of the U. S. Naval Hospital at St. Albans, L. I., and will stay there, under latest orders, until next July.

Lt. B. J. (Bones) Stepczyk, AC, was at Bergstrom Field, Austin, Tex., when we last heard of him several months ago. Any news from him or of him will be welcome.

Ens. Robert E. Shapiro, USNR, is attached to the USNATB, Ft. Pierce, Fla.

Sgt. George McTammany reports his current address is 14th Traffic Regulation Group, Det. A, APO 513, c/o Postmaster, New York.

Gil Panson sets its down simply: "Soldier, Special Engineer Detachment, Barracks Area, Oak Ridge, Tenn."

Bob Union, Spec. y 1c, USNR, is on duty at Martha's Vineyard, Mass. He and Mrs. Union and their daughter, Deborah, spent leave in Providence during the holidays.

Russ Byles reports a change of address from Rumford to 17-A Westmoreland Garden Apts., Little Neck, L. I., N. Y

Lt. Martin S. McDonough, USNR, skipper of a PT boat in the ETO, sent home an English newspaper version of an American football game that Barney Madden quoted in his column in the Providence Journal. Marty thought it really funny, as did many readers. Best description in the English piece: " 'Bullet pass' also had a literal meaning. It meant that a ball was thrown at a man so hard that it knocked him out. It was a favorite pass."

Arnold Eggert is the new Youth Director of the Atlantic City, N. J., Y.M.C.A., to which he transferred from the New Brunswick Y.M.C.A. His mail address is 310 27th St., Brigantine, N. J.

It's now 1st Lt. Leslie N. Hood, Jr., 9th AF in France. Les was recently promoted to that rank after having been a 2nd Lt. since November, 1943, when he was commissioned at Seymour Johnson Field, Ala., with the highest scholastic marks in his class. Overseas since last April, he is co-pilot of a B-26 Marauder. He wears the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, and has taken part in approximately 40 missions.

Award of the Bronze Star has been made to Lt. Edward L. Leahy, Jr., USNR, missing in action. Ed was serving as Assistant Approach Officer on a submarine during the sixth war patrol of that vessel in enemy waters in the Pacific. "Determined and efficient in the performance of duty throughout this extended patrol, Lt. Leahy furnished his commander an uninterrupted flow of information extremely vital to the effectiveness of each action, thereby contributing directly to the success of his submarine in sinking or seriously damaging an important amount of Japanese shipping," his citation read.

Lt. Norman S. Dike, Jr., is overseas with the 506th Parachute Inf., 101st Airborne Division.

Lt. Norman L. Hibbert, USNR, is on duty with CBMU 603, and is getting his mail through the Fleet PO, San Francisco.

We've heard that on their honeymoon, Capt. Harold A. Stege, USMCR, and Mrs. Stege visited Fred and Betty (Lloyd) Drennan, Jr., in St. Louis, and saw Jim and Doreen (Perks) Sands in Rockford, Ill. Bob Schaper was unable to make the trip to Oak Park, Ill., to act as Hal's best man.

1st Lt. William C. Pearce, AC, has received his first Oak Leaf Cluster to the DFC and the third and fourth clusters to the Air Medal for bombing missions in the Central Pacific. He's a pilot of a B-25 Mitchell bomber with a 7th Air Force group. Bill has been overseas since November, 1943.

Lt. (jg) Robert J. Doherty, USCGR, was on board a transport which took a direct hit from a Japanese plane during the trip into Lingayen Gulf for the assault on Luzon. Bob's ship was under attack 10 days before the invasion, but the gunners knocked down the Jap raider. Attacks went on periodically, and the Jap bomb struck just 24 hours before the landing head was established. "The Jap plane swooped in from astern," Bob told an interviewer, "and its first bomb missed us by only 60 feet. The pilot came back for another try. We gave him all we had, but it wasn't quite enough." The ship, however, kept going, and unloaded as the air raids went on.

Lt. (jg) Clifford Gustafson, USCGR, made something of a record by completing 35 trips on his ship between England and France during the invasion. Twin brother Clifton (same rank, same branch) has been doing coastal patrol duty on this side of the Atlantic.

Lt. Douglas S. Kennedy, USNR, has been attached to the MTBSTC at Melville, R. I., after overseas duty No doubt some of you have already heard that Doug was married last Oct. 24 in Paris to Ann Elizabeth Newdick. His house address is 87 William St., Worcester, Mass.

M/Sgt. Raymond J. Sicard has received the Bronze Star Medal, a correspondent tells us. Ray went through the North African and Italian campaigns and then moved on to France. He is with an outfit belonging to the Sixth Corps.

S/Sgt. George Hurley, Jr., has a new overseas APO which we'll be glad to pass on to all friends. "You assume correctly that it is rather difficult for me to keep track of my globe trotting generation," he wrote. He named Hal Stege, Bob Schaper as regular letter writers, and said: "Lou Smadbeck supplements scattered sources from time to time, ditto Herb Maas, Jr. . . . Rely on ALUMNI MONTHLY for the rest."

Capt. Donald E. Hall, AAF, has an overseas address as long as your arm which the Alumni Office will gladly set down if you ask for it. His bride, the former Christena M. Gray, is at 279 Beach Ave., Conimicut, R. I.

Your Secretary records with regret the death in action on Leyte of Capt. Arthur Henry Bijur, SC, USA, and extends to his family the sincere sympathy of the Class. Art was one of our able and admired leaders in undergraduate days and in war. Maj. "Pat" Kenny '25 writes that Art died in a direct hit on his foxhole.

1st Lt. Frederick N. Byerly, USNCR, is back from 15 months service in the SWPA, during which he was communications officer with a Marine Air Wing in the New Hebrides and at Green Island. Fred's father, Col. J. K. Byerly, is on active duty in Italy with the Army.

After 123 Missons

▸ AFTER COMPLETING 123 missions with the 9th and 12th Air Forces in North Africa and Italy, Capt. Wilbur S. Winans '42, AC, has returned to this country and is now with a unit of the First AAF Fighter Command, Mitchel Field, N. Y., instructing pilots for overseas replacements. He holds the DFC, Bronze Star, Air Medal with five oak leaf clusters and the European theater ribbon with five stars. He trained as an infantry officer at Ft. Benning, Ga., then transferred to the Air Corps. His mother lives at 85 Halsted St., East Orange, N. J. ◂

Family Tradition

▸ ALL OFFICERS in the Navy and all Brown men, the three DiPrete brothers form a unit the like of which is undoubtedly rare among alumni bodies throughout the country. Ens. Walter DiPrete '46 received his commission at the winter Commencement, Feb. 25. Ens. Frank A. DiPrete, Jr. '44 is on active service in the Central Pacific on an AKA, and could ask for nothing better than promotion so that he will be ready to accept salute from his younger brother if and when they meet at sea or on land. Lt. (jg) Arthur T. DiPrete '42 is an instructor at Atlanta, Ga. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. DiPrete of 1320 Cranston St., Cranston. ◂

▸ Dedication

▸ "IF THIS STUDY carried a dedication, it would stand in the name of the author's friend, Major Robert W. Kenny, 103d Field Artillery, USA, who for nearly two years has been an actor in the greatest of all Pacific adventures, concerning himself in many harsh and distant places with matters which, superficially, have little connection with his former duties as an assistant professor of English in Brown University." Dr. Lawrence C. Wroth, Librarian of the John Carter Brown Library, so wrote in the introduction to "The Early Cartography of the Pacific," reprinted for the library from the Papers of the Bibliographical Society of America and based on a recent exhibition of originals and some facsimiles in the JCB. It is a major work in the field of scholarship.

Continuing in his introduction, Dr. Wroth said: "Though by design hardly a word of the War has found its way into the ensuing narrative, there has been no moment in its writing in which Robert Kenny and his fellows in the South Pacific have been absent from the author's consciousness. Nor will they, or others of their indomitable sort, ever be out of the minds of those who read this account of the Pacific discoveries and their mapping."

Major Kenny, Brown '25, was promoted to associate professor at the February meeting of the Advisory and Executive Committee of the Brown Corporation. His wife received the news when President Wriston phoned her on Prof. Kenny's birthday. ◂

Rev. H. Russell Barker, advanced to the priesthood by the Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry '12, hon., Bishop of Rhode Island, at an ordination service in St. Paul's Church, Pawtucket, is assistant to the vicar of the Chapel of the Incarnation, 240 East 31st St., New York.

S/Sgt. Holmes J. Burton, AC, is an administrative specialist at a sub-depot of an operational heavy bombardment group belonging to the 8th AF in England. His job is aiding in compiling and recording reports, making records, and doing similar office work. He's been overseas since December, 1943.

William E. O'Connor is with the Department of State, Washington, where he lives at 2035 H St., N.W.

Lt. Donald H. O'Connor, QMC, is with a company supplying the AAF, and is getting his mail through APO 133, c/o Postmaster, New York. Don's house address is 293 West 7th Ave., Columbus, O.

Capt. Richard A. Grout, CE, was in hospital in England at the end of January recovering from wounds received in Germany, Dec. 13, 1944, while in command of a company of combat engineers. Dick landed in France on D-Day, and saw continuous combat in France, Belgium, and Germany before he was hit. His father, Harold A. Grout '13, said in a recent letter: "Dick has the highest praise for the splendid work which the Red Cross is doing in making life a little more comfortable for the men who have been wounded, not only while they are in the base hospital but also while they are being transported both on the continent and in England."

F/O Jay P. Kaner is with a Combat Crew Det., training at the Army Air Field, Casper, Wyo. There's a note elsewhere on his marriage Jan. 8 to Miss Patricia Biow in New York.

Lt. Richard G. Dunn, AC, has won the Air Medal with two clusters "for distinguishing himself in aerial flight over France during September and October," as the Providence Journal put it.

Lt. (jg) John D. Wallace, USNR, is at the U. S. Naval Mine Warfare Test Station, Solomons, Md. Jack was teaching physics at Amherst when he turned sailor.

Dick Hollrock has been promoted to 1st Lt., AC, in Italy, where he is a pilot with a veteran Liberator bombardment group which has flown more than 160 missions against enemy installations in central and southern Europe. Dick's house address is 87 Pennsylvania Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Lt. (jg) Ronald McIntyre, USCGR, is on duty at the Coast Guard Barracks, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. McIntyre is the former Elizabeth Winsor Short '43, Pembroke College.

I. W. (Bud) Patterson, S2c, USNR, has been a student at Gunnersmate School, Sampson, N. Y. He became father of a daughter last November, and his card ended: "Whole family doing fine." His mail address is 7 Alvord Rd., Morristown, N. J.

Pete Brown is a field engineer with Wright Aeronautical Corp., stationed at the NAS, Patuxent River, Md. His house address: P. R. Brown, Oakwood Lodge, Piney Point, Md.

Lt. Glen W. McGee, Jr., USMCR, pilot of a fighter plane based in the Central Pacific, was wounded over the Marshall Islands on his 47th mission, the Buffalo, N. Y., News reported in late December. Glenn's parents and a brother, Dick, who has been honorably discharged from the Army after three years' service, live at 201 Main St., Hamburg, N. Y.

Lt. Herbert H. Katz, FA, was an Alumni Office visitor in mid-January to see about his BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY subscription and to tell us he'd been sharing his magazine with Capt. Richard Musson '34, now headed overseas. Herb is with Hq. 618th Observation Bn., Camp Gruber, Okla.

Sgt. Jonathan B. Duthie is with the 3017th AAF Base Unit on duty at Hobbs, N. M. That's 2,500 miles from home, he says, and the ALUMNI MONTHLY helps bridge the gap. He's a flight engineer on a B-17, and likes the work—"quite a change from my civilian pursuit of investment banking." His daughter, Janice Kathleen, arrived last Dec. 9, just in time for a double celebration at Christmas.

Lt. (jg) F. Karl Willenbrock, USNR, is on duty at the Naval Mine Depot, Yorktown, Va. He was married just before Christmas, we hear, to Miss Mildred G White.

1st Lt. Aubrey L. Raymond, AC, in Europe with the AAF, has a new daughter, Pamela Phillips, to talk about. Pamela is four months old. And there's Aubrey, Jr., going on three, who will be nearly big enough to play football by the time father comes home

A. Paul Harrison is back again with the UP at 714 National Press Bldg., Washington 4, D. C., after having been farmed out by his boss to help the War Finance Division of the U. S. Treasury Department in connection with the Sixth War Loan.

Cpl. Leo Dunn, recently with a veteran Troop Carrier Group in the CBI sector, can now wear the Distinguished Unit Badge as the result of a citation for outstanding achievement given the outfit by the 12th AF. Leo's TCG hopped from the Mediterranean to the Imphal Valley, India, took part for two and a half months in rooting the Japs out of Northern Burma and the Imphal Valley, and then came back to the Mediterranean. As the group has been overseas nearly 30 months, Leo admits Fitchburg, Mass., will look good any time.

Your Secretary records with regret the death in action in the Pacific area of Lt. (jg) Adolph C. Wochomurka, USNR, and gives to his parents and to his fiancee, Miss Theresa Dion of West Willington, Conn., the sincere sympathy of the Class. He had been in action over Luzon after having taken part in the fighting at Tarawa, Nauru, Rabaul, the Gilberts, the Marshalls, the Marianas and Truk with the Navy Air Corps. He was home on 30-day leave a year ago this month.

Lt. William B. Denniston, USNR, is Engineering Officer on a troop transport with nearly a year's active service in the Pacific area.

Don Foley is now a Sgt. with the infantry in Belgium, or Germany by this time. This is authentic, and we are happy to report it, as we found out after careful checking that our Don is not the J. Donald Foley, also of Boonton, N. J., who was killed last October on Palau. Rather unusual to have two soldiers of the same name from the same town.

Fowl and Dilemma

"THEY SHOULD HAVE a course on poultry at Brown," writes Pvt. Albert S. Feldman '45 on an Airdrome Squadron in the Pacific. "We have some chickens, and once in a while (especially during an air alert) they fly the coop. Now the question is whether to clip one or both wings in order to ground the bird. I'm working on it with a Holy Cross man."

F/O Jay P. Kaner, AC, is a bombardier on a B-24 Liberator. When Jay was married in January, he was on leave from his combat crew detachment in Casper, Wyo.

"Somewhere in the Philippines," said 1st Lt. Frederick C. Allgeier in his letter asking that the ALUMNI MONTHLY be sent him. "However late, the ALUMNI MONTHLY and the Newsletter are always appreciated," he added.

1st Lt. Richard H. Hollrock, AC, is with the 15th AF in Italy. He belongs to a Liberator bombardment group which has flown more than 100 bombing missions against strategic enemy points throughout central and southeastern Europe.

1st Lt. Frederick N. Byerly, USMCR, has been stationed at the Natte Ward Island Compound, Corpus Christi, Tex. Mrs. Byerly is the former Virginia Greene Farr. They were married shortly before Christmas.

"Had Gene Coughlin, the old Brown halfback from Maine, under our group for a couple of months," Capt. John Boehne wrote his friend, Jack Martin of the Providence Evening Bulletin, from the western front. "Gene is an executive officer with an ack-ack battery and doing a splendid job.

Hospital Neighbor

JACK FRANKEL '46 wrote Brooke Anderson of the BCA that when he woke up one morning in the 199th General Hospital, in the bed next to him was Art Markoff '44, who "got his D-day." Both were wounded in the St. Nazaire sector.

Sure hated to have his battalion transferred out of our group."

Lt. (jg) L. K. Jordan, USNR, out in the Pacific with an LST group, reports: "Continue to dig up Brown acquaintances and never fail to be amazed to the marrow. Met Dick High in town the day after we pulled in here. He's Communications Officer on an LST. Ivor Boiarsky '41 sent me into a stupor when we collided in a beach hotel. He's Communications Officer on a CG frigate. And last Sunday I dug a little hole in the sands on the beach and there was Gerald Stevenson '44, I think. He wasn't there long, but I worked with him in Glee Club and Brownbrokers."

Bob Pevoto, 1st Lt. in the Army at Hq., 8th Service Command, Dallas, Tex., was on the Hill not so long ago, and visited his old professors in the Classics Department. He also looked in at the Alumni Office. Bob has completed a five-weeks course at the Command and General Staff School, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., and said that Bob Grabb '41, Major, AC, had taken the same course.

Lt. (jg) Don Smith, late of the LSTs in the Solomons area, has been in New England for some time to pick up a new ship. He was in Providence to see his brother, Henry, (Brown 1941), and the campus early in March and hoped to take in the Boston Brown Dinner April 9. Lt. (jg) Joe Edinburg was a shipmate out in the Pacific, and they saw lots of other Brown men, he says.

Dave Towler has been promoted to 1st Lt. Dave, who is with the ATC at a base in England, has been overseas since last summer. Mrs. Towler is living in Provincetown, Mass.

Lt. (jg) Dunc Colley, on leave recently from his cruiser in the Pacific, said, "We did some of the tearing up . . . our ship participated in every engagement and major operation from August 1943 to January 1945." Colley was in the first group of officers commissioned from the Naval Unit at Brown nearly two years ago.

2nd Lt. John Sen was a campus visitor Feb. 12, just commissioned at the end of his tour at OCS Ft. Benning. He returns to Fort Snelling, Minn., for further studies. He was interested to hear that Dick Sneider was at the Brown reunion in Honolulu in December, for they had been classmates at Camp Savage.

Vincent Luca received his 2nd Lt.'s bars at the Chemical Warfare Service OCS at Edgewood Arsenal in December and returned early in January for ten weeks' further training. He wrote that the present troop commander at the OCS, successor to a Harvard man, is Capt. Henry C. Adams, also a '43 Beta . . . and that down in the hills of Virginia, while out on maneuvres, his company met a QM company head on, led by Lt. Jay Fidler. "We had only a few short moments to talk so I couldn't learn much more but it really was a treat."

Ens. John L. Gerfin, USNR, who attended Brown for two years and was a member of Theta Delta Chi, has received his A.B. in literature from Union College, while still on active duty.

David Burnham received his gold bars the first of the year at Fort Benning, and has since reported to Camp Richie, Md.

Cpl. Jim Munves, with the 3rd Army in France, was wounded Dec. 1st and at last reports was in a hospital in England.

Ens. Deming Bacon has the sincere sympathy of his classmates on the death of his father, J. Earle Bacon of Providence, on Jan. 30th.

Beyond the bare fact that S/Sgt. Johnny Roberts has been missing in action over Germany since November, his mother has not been able to give us any other news.

According to an AAF news release, T/Sgt. William Wells, radio operator and gunner on an 8th Air Force B-17, has recently completed over 200 combat hours. The assault on sub pens and docks at Hamburg he considered his toughest mission, especially when bursting flak put the plane's electrical system out of commission and they nearly froze because of the high altitude. "When we finally got to England and safely down on the ground, everyone felt as if he had been given a new lease on life."

Prof. Coolidge told the Alumni Office that Cpl. Charles R. Stone had been wounded on the Western Front recently.

S/Sgt. Norton Hirsch, in renewing his subscription, wrote that although his APO number has changed, "I'm at a bomber base doing some work in communications and having a pretty good time. I wish however that the MONTHLY would come more often and thus help bridge the gap between Italy and the Brown campus. My regards to all my friends and I hope that I will be back on the campus soon . . ."

In a letter to the BCA, Lt. Fred Irving's mother said that he has signed up for classes in Russian and Spanish at the Prisoner of War camp in Germany where he has been since he was shot down over Hungary last summer.

Ray Abbott of Lambda Chi reports that Dick Houck is a Lt. in Air Corps Communications on New Guinea, and that Ensigns Ed Teschner and Bob Pollard '46 staged a reunion out in the Pacific.

Lt. (jg) John Buchman of the Navy and Ens. James Eisenman of the Maritime Service both dropped in on the Alumni Office one morning in March. Buchman is still attached to the same destroyer he has been on since graduation, and Eisenman is awaiting new orders.

Ens. Stanton Adkins is inspecting ordnance at Great Neck, L. I.

The first thing T/Sgt. Bill Barton wanted to know when he met the Boston Daily Globe's war correspondent was how his cousin Betsy's book was selling. Betsy, who was badly crippled in an auto accident, is the daughter of former Congressman Bruce Barton. Bill himself was with the ASTP at Ohio State before going to France with the 9th Army . . . born in Paris as he was, his fluent French and German must be very helpful now.

2nd Lt. Charles Philbrick is flying bomber-escort and strafing missions over Germany in a P-51 from an 8th AF base in England. His family was glad to see a photo sent us by the PRO.

Lt. Ted Morse of the Marines wrote Mr. Selden from somewhere in the Pacific "all the latest dope" with the hope that the Alumni Office would be able to use some of the news. ". . . I got 'here' on Thanksgiving Day and have yet to collect my turkey dinner. However, I expect to make up for it on X-mas even though I am on divisional guard duty . . . I see Pete Pearson ('44—Lt.—USMCR) quite frequently. He saw Ens. Lloyd Cornell in Pearl Harbor over a month ago. Lt. Flint Ricketson was in an AAA Bn. with the 1st Marine Div. on Pelilieu and received a broken finger and bayonet wound on his forehead as a result of being a transport Quartermaster!"

Pfc. William J. Bottomley has been reported missing in action in France since November. Bill left Brown with the ERC in March '43, had 8 months' training in Russian under the ASTP, and was the soldier who unveiled the Bristol, R. I., Honor Roll last Fourth of July.

Lt. Anthony Noll's wife wrote us in January that he had been missing since the middle of November on a mission to Linz, Austria. A few days later a note arrived saying she had heard that he was a German prisoner.

"Shoot first . . .

. . . question afterwards" used to be the old-time sheriff's slogan.

Ours is exactly the reverse. We've found thot it saves a lot of money and misery to thrash out every printing question before the work goes to press.

This policy hos paid its way countless times in the post 74 yeors.

Vol. XLV APRIL, 1945 No. 8

Arthur Lippack who was QM3c on a destroyer in the Pacific for a year, was commissioned in November and attending school at Hollywood Beach, Fla., until February.

Ens. Gerald C. Alletag was recently selected as the outstanding man in his group of officer trainees at the Amphibious Training Base at Coronado, Calif.

1st Lt. Donald Joseph has been awarded his first Oak Leaf cluster to the Air Medal for his part as a fighter pilot with the "Burma Banshees," of the Tenth Air Force, during which time he has been on 75 combat missions.

Lt. (jg) John F. Buchman III, sending his gift for the Alumni Fund, said, "Thanks for the opportunity to identify myself with the class of 1944. I left them a little early, but that is still my class so far as I'm concerned."

Pfc. Charles Whipple, who was serving with the 7th Army, has been reported missing in action in Germany.

1945

2nd Lt. Ray Moulton, bombardier-navigator, has been missing over Austria since early in December.

Clifton Capwell is now a T/5 in Italy, with the Signal Intelligence Service.

Lt. William Johnston, who went to India last June, is a member of the 7th Bomb Gp. which has been flying B-24's over the "hump" into China with vitally needed high octane gasoline. Until very recently, the operation was a closely guarded secret.

Ens. Lewis Lees wrote us a letter the day after he returned "from one of the most important invasions in the Philippine campaign to date." In the Southwest Pacific for six months on an LCI(L), he has yet to see a single Brown man although he said he knew there were several in the area. We hope he gets in on a reunion soon.

Pfc. Milton Machlin wrote from the Philippines that he and Art Palmer have managed to stay in the same units since the day of their induction, and that until embarkation for overseas were also with Bob Kerr, who is now in Australia. Arthur Oppenheimer, Jr. '39 is at present with Machlin's unit, also.

Lt. Dion Taylor is in England now as a B-17 pilot with the Third Bombardment Division.

Just before Christmas, T/Sgt. Sheldon Silverman's parents received two cards from him in his prison camp believed to be near Belgrade. His address: Prisoner of War No. 3622, Stalag-Luft III (Stalag 4), Germany.

Tony Behr, an operator of training mechanism for the AAF at Gulfport, Miss., was a February visitor in the Alumni Office. He brought word of having seen F/O Tim O'Neil and 2nd Lt. Bob Clark '46, a navigator.

2nd Lt. Raymond W. Pickett, USAAC, has been posthumously awarded the Air Medal.

Ens. Prall Culviner reports from his mid-Pacific island that Jack Cokefair is on a minesweeper, Bud Grimes on an LSM, and that Joe Macioci is "an LCT Flotilla Engineer (his brother Poly Sci majors take note!) after having his LCT shot out from under him at Palau." He also ran into Ens. George Kanouse, who had spent 103 days in the hospital at Navy No. 128 but is back on a DE now. Prall's degree was awarded at Brown's February Commencement.

Prof. George Sykes '09 sent us word that six Brown '45 men had recently completed a course in Anatomy under him at Tufts College Medical School: Pfc. Bill King, John Leary, and Apprentice Seamen Richard Broggi, John Craig, Ed Fiorentino and Bernard Willett, Jr., the last four of whom attended Brown in the V-12 Unit.

1st Lt. Keram Chobanian, USMCR, wounded at Saipan and transferred to Hawaii, is now being treated at the Newport Naval Hospital.

2nd Lt. Lou De Angelis of the Marines dropped in to see his old friends in the Alumni Fund and Alumni Offices on Washington's Birthday, his stay at Quantico complete and his new orders reading Los Angeles. He remarked that Don Gardner, who had been with him as a DTD at Brown and then as a Marine at Parris Island, New River, and Quantico, would still be with him on the Coast. Other Brunonians on whom he reported at Quantico were Ted Shea, Vin Breglio, Jack Ross, and Doc Kilbourne.

Ens. Gus Avantaggio writes from the Pacific: "Although I've met many men from the old school out here, I doubt if you at home have heard how Brown and the Seekonk River combined to cause one of those queer twists of life. C. F. ("Bud") Abbott, having been commissioned from the NROTC at Brown, left Providence to begin the long trek out here. Upon arriving, he discovered that he had travelled half way across the world to go aboard the —you guessed it—USS Seekonk. Needless to say, it occasioned more than one smile among the Brown men out here."

Richard Whitcomb was commissioned an Ensign in the Naval Air Corps at Corpus Christi in February. Same for Richard Pretat at Pensacola.

After training at the Merchant Marine Academy, during which time he spent seven months at sea as an engineering cadet and made ports around the world, John Walsh was commissioned and has been on duty in the Pacific since last June.

1st Lt. Richard Boynton, who flew 29 missions in the ETO as navigator on a B-17, is now a member of the permanent party at the new Convalescent Hospital, Ft. Thomas, Ky.

1st Lt. Fred Brown has returned to the States after duty as a pilot with the "Flying Deuces" squadron of the First Marine Air Wing.

Capt. Michael C. Gatto has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action in Belgium last September. A veteran of campaigns in North Africa, Sicily, France, and Germany, he also wears the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Henry Altenberg reports from New York that he is "rapidly dashing through medical studies at N.Y.U. College of Medicine," that he had seen Ens. Bill Pendleton '44, and heard from Friedl Lang '44, a medico private with the ATC in Memphis, and John Willsemsen, T/4 with the 28th General Hospital in Belgium.

Joe Foley, deep in graduate zoology at Yale, came back to the campus in February, for the first time since last June. He told us in the Alumni Office that there was, as we suspected, a sizeable Brown colony among the graduate schools in New Haven Five of them, he said, are in the medical school: Gabriel Saviano and Bill Walsh, both '44, and Paul Goldstein, Frank Horton, and Ed Phillips (although his friend Fred Easton is at Harvard) all '45. Only a few days later and we saw Horton back on the Hill.

Lt. Boyd Mason met Raymond Bernz, navigator on a B-29, at his P.O.E. .

In a letter to Mr. Selden, Art Palmer reports that Milt Macklin has returned to their unit following a siege of malaria and that Bob Kerr, his former roommate, has also turned up in the Philippines and they are anxiously awaiting a reunion. He added: "The latest run-in with a former student occurred some three days ago, at which time I noticed a sweatshirt with that ever present Brown bear upon it. The wearer turned out to be Willard Parker '42, who was visiting someone here in our outfit. He is at present flying reconnaissance and cargo planes and does indeed seem to be enjoying his work . . . Art Oppenheimer '39 happened to be in the mess hall at the time . . ."

Also from the Philippines, Pvt. Arthur Feldman wrote the Newsletter in December: "I rather suppose I am the first Brunonian to 'return' and as such lay claim. Reports on the astonishing number of Nip planes shot out of the sky during those days are not bunk. The frustrated lads did their darndest to sink our ship—dive bombing, torpedo bombing, and even an attempt at suicide ramming . . . what keeps me content is the dream of that Golden Day when I resume college life on the Hill."

An injured leg is the report from Attillo Margarita of Patton's tanks, who apparently was put out of action during the push to the Rhine early in March. He had been all right when he wrote to his brother, Henry, on the campus March 1. Tillo received the Bronze Star for outstanding work in the capture of Metz. His outfit has apparently been in the thick of things, for he'd had only two days of leisure since August.

His sister wrote us recently that Ed Sherrill is now a T/3 with Gen. Patton's army.

That Lonely

"IN FACT," said one of our new alumni in a recent letter to K. Brooke Anderson, secretary of the B.C.A., "I became so lonesome that I subscribed to the BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY."

That, we submit, is the ultimate in desperation.

Luther Francis, fighter pilot of a P-51, has been promoted to 1st Lt. in England.

Lt. Ed. Mullen, reported missing over Germany, has turned up safely as a prisoner of war. He was navigator on a B-17.

One of Senator Green's principal appointees to the Naval Academy from Rhode Island was John McTammany, now attending Midshipman's School. Alternates were J. Warren Lovell, also '46, now at Pre-Midshipman's School, and Seaman 2nd class George McNiff '47.

Ens. Bob Mareneck's marriage the Saturday before Christmas was a very Brunonian affair. Present at the ceremony in the Hotel Statler in Washington were Ensigns Bill Barrett, Nat Davis, and John Henderson; and Gil Hoover and Frank Mullin, then still members of the NROTC Unit here, since commissioned.

Ens. Hueston Hyde wrote us from New London, where he and his wife were living for a short while, ". . . . in the course of my wanderings I have run into a good many Brown men in the sub service. It is the best in the Navy as far as I am concerned and I am pleased to see so many fellow Brown men in it."

In a letter to Mr. Anderson of the BCA, Ed Krise's father wrote: "We do not know whether or not the Germans moved the camp in which Ed is, but if they haven't, they are now completely cut off from the rest of Germany by the Russians, and we are anxiously awaiting word concerning these camps in Pomerania."

Pfc. Anthony Tapper was among the repatriates who arrived back in this country on the Gripsholm in February. Tapper had received a leg injury and was captured at Anzio, Feb. 18, 1944. He was hospitalized and was learning to walk with crutches when he found he was scheduled for repatriation.

James Whittle has completed training at the Navy Aerographers' School, Lakehurst, N. J.

Cpl. Arthur Ferris was awarded the Bronze Star and a citation for capturing seven German soldiers and an officer in France last November, while searching for a suitable location to set up a radio.

1947

Jonathan Sisson, who attended two semesters in the V-12 Unit and then entered Annapolis, stands first in his class of 1073 in mathematics, according to information sent from the Naval Academy to the principal of his former high school. There were comments on other studies and class rating, but "tops in math" is said to be the greatest achievement credited to a midshipman from Providence.

Philip Johnson has returned to this country after spending seven months in France with the American Field Service as an ambulance driver. His brother, Charles '46, is overseas with the Field Artillery, and they managed to meet occasionally.

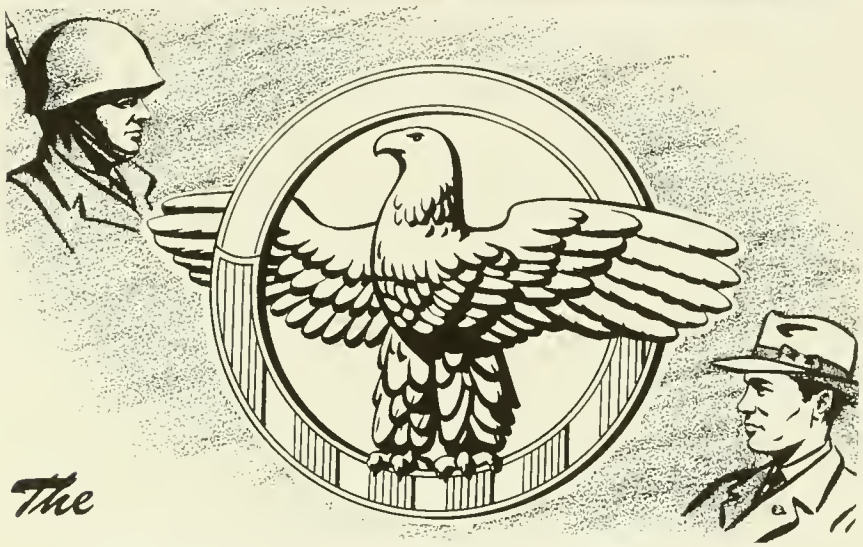
Bob Rocchio, down from the Army hospital at Camp Devens, came to the campus last month to pay his respects to the new Vice-President, Bruce Bigelow.

It didn't take Stanley Potter, Jr., long to get into action. He was with the infantry during the drive to the Rhine, having finished his training at Camp Wheeler at Christmas time and stopping not long in England.

Completed Careers

1886

WILLIAM ALLAN DYER, A.B., A.M., leader in civic and welfare work and widely known as industrialist and merchant, died in Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 21, 1944. Brown elected him an Alumni Trustee; Syracuse University gave him the honorary degree of A.M.; and Syracuse Post of the American Legion conferred upon him in 1942 its Good Citizenship Medal. After a thorough grounding in business methods in Boston, Providence, and Fall River, he went to Syracuse in 1903 to be Secretary-Treasurer of Smith Premier Typewriter Co. As Vice President and General Manager of that firm he introduced sales promotion ideas that were nationally copied. In 1912 he became part owner and general manager of Chappell-Dyer Co., retail dry goods, and two years later won election as President of the New York State Retail Dry Goods Association. Director of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce since 1914, he served four terms as its President, beginning in 1919. He headed the War Chest and Liberty Loan drives in Syracuse, brought about the establishment in that city of the first emergency army camp in 1917, and organized all business on a war basis. In the days of the NRA he organized Syracuse and Onondaga County, a real task. He arbitrated many labor disputes, and for years was official arbitrator of the Arbitration Society of America. The Syracuse Memorial Hospital and Medical Center is a monument to his efforts in raising $2,500,000 for the hospital and its equipment. In this war he had been Chairman of Selective Service Board 463. He was National Commander of the Sons of Union Veterans, a life member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, and a member of numerous civic and patriotic groups. His fraternity was Delta Kappa Epsilon.



The HONORABLE Service Button

TO THE WEARER of this gold lapel button . . . the Honorable Service insignee of World War II . . . Old Colony joins our fellow countrymen in saluting patriotic service completed with honor. Mark it well, recognize and acknowledge it wherever seen, by whomever worn. It designates the veteran who has finished service in the armed forces of the United States at an hour of greatest need, and who has received honorable discharge.

A small gold button worn in the lapel buttonhole, for the first time in our military history its distinction is shared by former members of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, with the women's auxiliary services of those branches . . . the Wacs, Waves, Marines and Spars. As they served together in the great world conflict, so do they share the honor of that service on their return to civil life.

In alumni work he was energetic, helpful, and abounding in constructive ideas. He rewrote the original Constitution of the Associated Alumni to broaden its scope. He was the first advocate of regional officers, and a consistent supporter of closer contacts between Brown officials and the Brown Clubs. He had been President of the Brown Club of Syracuse, a Vice President of the Associated Alumni, and a Trustee of the Brown Alumni Fund. He took pride in Brown, as he took pride in the Syracuse Community Chest, of which he had been the guiding genius, and in his American heritage. Born Fall River, Mass., April 7, 1865, the son of David Hartwell and Mary E. (French) Dyer. Married Clara Tucker Spink, Nov. 18, 1890. Mrs. Dyer survives, with a son, Lt. Comdr. William Allan Dyer, Jr., '24, USNR, retired, and two grandchildren.

▸ STEPHEN WATERMAN, A.B., A.M., retired industrialist and architect, died suddenly at his summer home, Grouselands, St. Johnsbury, Vt., Oct. 2, 1944. During the Spanish-American War he was Captain, Co. E, First Rhode Island Volunteer Infantry, a rank he previously held in the State Militia and in the First Light Infantry. On graduation he went with Nicholson & Waterman Mfg. Co., of which he became President in 1887 and served until 1893. For many years he was an architect. Then he went into the Engineering Department, D. & W. Fuse Co., and later into a similar department of Franklin Machine Co. A faithful member of the Providence Art Club, he served as its superintendent, 1929-31. He was President of Waterman Land Co., a former officer of the old Narragansett Boat Club and of the Rhode Island Business Men's Association, and a member of the Military Order of Foreign Wars, of which he had been Commander, Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War, Providence Engineering Society, Army and Navy Club, Washington, D. C., the Brown Club of Washington, and Psi Upsilon. Born Providence, Oct. 10, 1863, the son of Stephen and Harriet (Bullock) Waterman. Married Gertrude Pope Whittier of Providence, June 12, 1900. Mrs. Waterman survives, with a daughter, Mrs. Vernon Gordon Taylor of Silver Springs, Md., and two sons, Stephen Waterman, Jr., '29 and Col. Paul Waterman '29, AAF.

1891

▸ WALTER MILLS SAUNDERS, consulting chemist and metallurgist and widely known for his studies of molding sand, died in Providence, Sept. 22, 1944. At Brown he took the select course, specializing in chemistry, studied elsewhere, and came back to the Hill in 1891 as instructor in chemistry. Resigning in 1897, he worked during the next four years as chemist for A. Carpenter & Sons Foundry Co., Providence. He became senior partner of Saunders & Franklin, commercial laboratory, and since 1928 had continued under his own name in association with his son, Walter M. Saunders, Jr. During the first World War he served on the Committee of Industrial Preparedness of the Naval Consulting Board. He was an original member of the Committee on Molding Sand Research, American Foundrymen's Association, and a charter member of Rhode Island Chapter, American Chemical Society. He was a former President of the New England Foundrymen's Association, and a member of Associated Brass Founders of New England, Providence Engineering Society, the Camera Club, American Society for Testing Materials, and other technical groups. He was also a vestryman of the Church of the Messiah (Episcopal), of which his parents were among the founders. His hobby was photography; he found delight in showing his pictures of flower buds opening to garden clubs. Born Johnston, July 28, 1866, the son of Joseph H. and Sophronia (Waterman) Saunders. Married Florence Sutcliffe, Feb. 11, 1896. Mrs. Saunders survives, with the son named above, a daughter, and three grandchildren. Another son was the late Norman W. Saunders '24.

1896

▸ ALFRED BERTRAND MEACHAM, A.B., retired investment banker, died in Manchester, Vt., Aug. 21, 1944. An Alumni Trustee of the University since 1939, he had been for 40 years one of Brown's strong, alert, and resourceful supporters in New York City. He was on the Board of Governors of the Brown University Club in New York, gave a great deal of time to the Brown Alumni Fund, and "was seldom absent from the Commencement procession down the Hill." He had also served as the New York Brown Club's President, and was a member of the Executive Committee, Civil Service Reform Association; Trustee and Treasurer, Economic and General Foundation; Trustee, West Side Savings Bank, and a director of several insurance companies. His fraternity was Delta Kappa Epsilon. After graduation he taught school for two years in Vermont, and then became assistant to the President, New York Post Graduate Medical School. In 1906 he joined the banking firm of Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., and continued with it in executive capacity until retirement in 1942. Born North Scituate, Mass., Oct. 5, 1874, the son of the Rev. Cola De Rienzi and Electa Dustin (Grow) Meacham. He never married. His only immediate survivor is a brother, the Rev. C. W. Meecham of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Whittier as Proponent

▸ "BROWN UNIVERSITY cannot afford to hesitate much longer in a matter like this of simple justice."

John Greenleaf Whittier was writing to Richard M. Atwater '65, a member of the Brown Corporation from 1878 to 1922, and championing the cause of education for women. The letter, dated "8th Mo 10 1881" at Danvers, Mass., has come to the Library of Brown University as the gift of Horace Paul Dormon '96 in fulfillment of Mr. Atwater's wishes. Whittier, himself a Brown Trustee from 1869 to 1892, told Atwater later in the same winter he saw "no reason to object to the publication of the letter as it stands." It follows:

Dear Friend,

Richard Atwater,

I hope the time is not far distant when Brown University will be open to women. The traditions of the noble old Institution are all in favor of broad liberality and equality of rights and privileges. The state of my health and the increasing weight of years may prevent me from taking an active part in the matter, but it would be a great satisfaction to give my voice in behalf of a measure which I feel certain would redound to the honor, and materially promote the prosperity, of the College. Brown University cannot afford to hesitate much longer in a matter like this of simple justice. No one who has felt the pulse of public opinion can doubt that the time has come when a liberal educational policy irrespective of sex, is not only a duty but a necessity.

Truly thy friend

John G. Whittier

"TELEVISION"

"We helped television get born and we've helped it grow.

"We made television sending and receiving apparatus back in 1927 and worked it by wire between Washington and New York City and by radio between Whippany, New Jersey, and New York.

"We can transmit television over wire lines and by radio. We produced the coaxial cable, which is particularly adapted to television. We have some coaxial installed now and are installing more. We are also setting up a micro-wave radio-relay circuit.

"Whatever television needs from us for transmission, we'll be prepared. It might be a network of cables or radio beams or both.

"We explore the field in order to do our part — which is the transmission of television from place to place, just as we furnish transmission for the radio networks now.

"We're going to keep on studying all methods—and use the best."
